Eddie, (Rudy)

GAH! You're even too cool graduating this year, and leaving all of us here. You Brat. No, I'm joking. You're so lucky. You're graduating with Chad. I'm so glad you're my close friend. I'm glad we've had a class together. Thanks for being such a nice friend to me. Thanks for all the times you've taken me out to lunch & let me listen to the crankin toons on your car. Oh and most important thank sooo much for introducing me to Chad. I love you very much for it, and for being you. You're a great guy so take care of yourself you mean so much to me, and I want to see you as a professional Photographer. O.K.. Don't worry, you won't be at A&W forever. Be good and please don't forget me. (I know you won't)

Love Ya Always.

and all the men and women merely players."

We, as students of Hoover High School, are playing different parts
on the stage of life.

-Eddie-

So how does it feel to be a senior? I'm sure I still have one more year. I just want to say thanks for helping me in photography. I learned alot from you. I guess I can say it was you who taught me photography, I really wish you would listen to me and think serious about becoming professional for a magazine or something but its your life. Some day you'll pick up a magazine and there my print will be. Good luck with your life and don't be SO I [illegible] Goodnight. Be there

Pride . . . The Key To Victory!!

The whistle is blown and the show begins. As Randa Cowart, the fearless leader, ascends the box, the solo majorette, Jennifer Lehn, manuevers gracefully about the field. The flag girls perform with precision and timing, adding color and excitement to the band performance. For them, pride is not just a word, it's the key to victory.

The 1981-82 band season has brought many honors to the auxilliary groups. Randa alone received a third place award in Visalia, and a fourth place in Clovis. The spirit flag girls who have five seniors, two juniors, and nine sophomores, got a second place in Madera, while Jennifer received a second place in Visalia. Without the combined efforts of these individuals, the band would lose it's sparkle.

SURPRISE, SURPRISE, SURPRISE! . . . Have a buzzin' Bee-day Randa Cowart!!

"BE QUIET and stop moving around!" yells the Drum Major, Randa Cowart.

We'd like To Teach The World To Sing

The Hoover Madrigals have been sing-ıng and dancing their way into the hearts of Fresno people for years. Whether it's with a popular song, or an old madrigal, they can express the meaning of the song to the audience. It shows in the music that they enjoy what they're doing.

Madrigal means a short poem that can be set to music, or a song with several parts for voices, sung without instrumental accompaniment. The "Mads" sing with an electric piano or guitar about fifty percent of the time; the rest of the time it's just voices, sweet and clear.

Auxilaries Twirl Together

PRACTICE, PRACTICE, PRACTICE . . . That's what it takes to march in front of the Patriot Band as a majorette or a lettergirl. Dedication means going to practice at 6:00 a.m. and again at 6:00 p.m. However, practice pays off; the majorettes won Outstanding Team in field competition and the lettergirls were awarded 1st place in parade competition at the California State Championship Band Review which was held in Clovis. The lettergirls also placed second in both the Selma and Lodi Band Reviews. Twirling sticks was something totally new and different for the lettergirls this year. Rex Cowart spent many frustrating hours teaching and working with them. The results were pretty good though, except for the many bruises from careless spins. Having a majorette team is also a welcome change to the band. Being together in band this year has meant much more than just practice. It's the feeling of competition, the excitement of winning (NO drops) close friendships, and crazy times which will be remembered by all the majorettes and lettergirls.

The J. V. Cheerleaders did a real good job this year. They were real enthusiastic during the school rallies and all through the football season Here are a few words from the J. V. Cheerleaders: Tracey Sherard: "Our biggest responsibility is to the sport teams, but we are preparing for competitions early in the year." Trish Haggerton: "Sometimes it's difficult to get everyone together for practice, but once we have an idea, we get excited." Sherry Vargus: "We work like a family, everyone strives to do the best cheer possible."

The cheerleaders this year were very busy with the fall, winter, and spring sports. They attended all games raising the spirit of the teams and the crowds.

Competition was another activity the cheerleaders prepared for. They started practice in November at 7:30 A.M. and during their lunch hours to perfect their routines.

We asked head cheerleader, Valerie Vasquez, what is it that keeps the squad together during all these activities? She said, "Unity and dedication make a #1 squad."

Debating It Out

A Forensic student is kind of hard to describe. There are no stereotypes like the dumb jock, the computer kid, or the blonde cheerleader. A Forensic student doesn't sing in the shower, he recites speeches. It's not uncommon at a Forensic tournament to see twenty students talking to walls, bushes, and lamps; all practicing their speeches. Instead of dreaming of winning their league in football, Forensic students dream about going to the National finals to perform an oratory speech.

Hit the Bullseye

There was a hush in the crowd, as talented Junior, Lori Yancura, stepped up to the platform. Slowly taking the pointed object into her fingers, she flung back her wrist, closed an eye, and let fly.

Her palms were sweating with anticipation as the small spear approached it's destination. Then suddenly, club sponsor, Robert Jarnagin, walked by. While he was about to sneeze, the dart surprisingly flew directly into his mouth, down his esophagus, and into his stomach, where it promptly split the apple which he had eaten for breakfast that morning.

This is just a small portion of the interesting things that happened to Hoover's Dart Club members this year. Team member Dexter Meckler, when asked about the club, exclaimed, "I think it's fantastic!"

"HIT ME WITH your best shot, and fire away." Hit a balloon, win a prize.

Always Punctual

Quill and Scroll, contrary to popular belief, is alive and well, somewhere on this campus—we think. We asked several students if they knew anyone in Quill and Scroll. Their responses were all the same, "The what?" We've searched high and low to find a Quill and Scroll Club member but, unfortunately, couldn't find one. Perhaps they are distant relatives to the Olympia Artestians and only come out at night because they are too busy writing all the time.

"I WANTED to put my toothpick there," says Suriya Jeyapalan

The would-be engineers sucked in their breath, pursed their lips and covered their faces. How much weight, they asked themselves, could their structures support before crumbling?

The answer came soon enough as the amateur engineers, students, in Hoover's Mesa club, readied their oil derrick for competition. The derrick was made of toothpicks and glue for competition between the other Mesa schools in the district.

S'roines, (seniors spelled backwards), is a club exclusively for senior girls. Their main goal is to encourage friendship among each other and to make their last year at Hoover a year to remember.

This year's officers consist of President Robin Holley, Vice President Lisa Renburg, and Secretary Jill Espanosa. Together they led the club in many wild and crazy activities such as rousing up the football team at an early hour and taking them to a kidnap breakfast.

A Friend is Forever

There are twenty two Senior students o are in Primary Mental Health. These udents go to Robinson Elementary hool during class to help emotionally dis-rbed children. The High School students e special friends to these children who ve problems. Through different toys and mes they work with the child trying to lp them release their feelings and prob-ms.

The Intellectuals Unite To Form C.S.F.

California Scholastic Federation, better known as C.S.F., is one of the largest clubs on campus. It is made up of 69 Hoover students who have achieved scholastic recognition. To belong to C.S.F. they needed a grade point average of 3.6 or higher. This year C.S.F. sold candy to pay for their annual trip to San Francisco to see the Broadway comedy "Barnum". Another activity C.S.F. participated in was the annual Christmas window decoration.

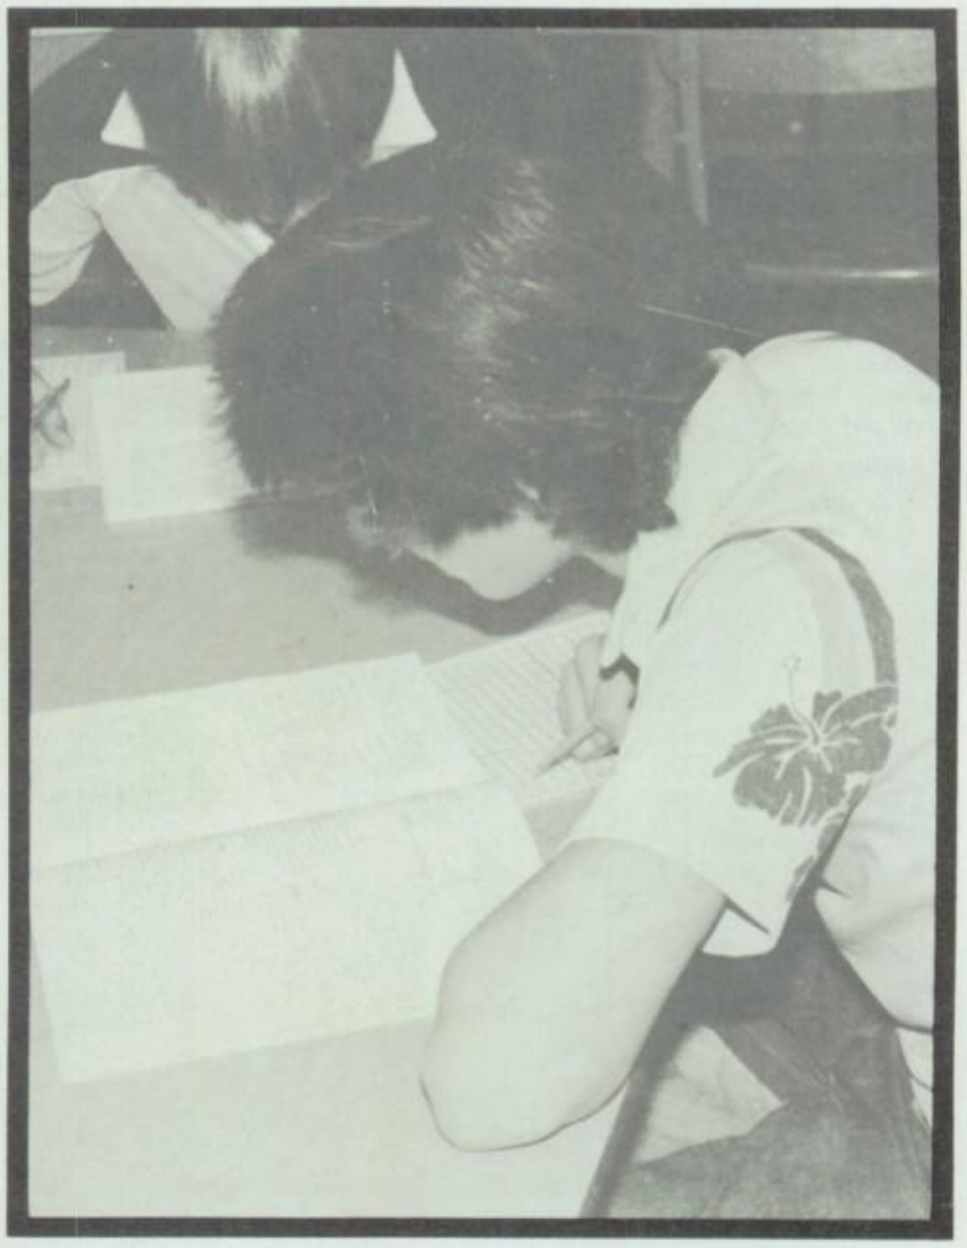
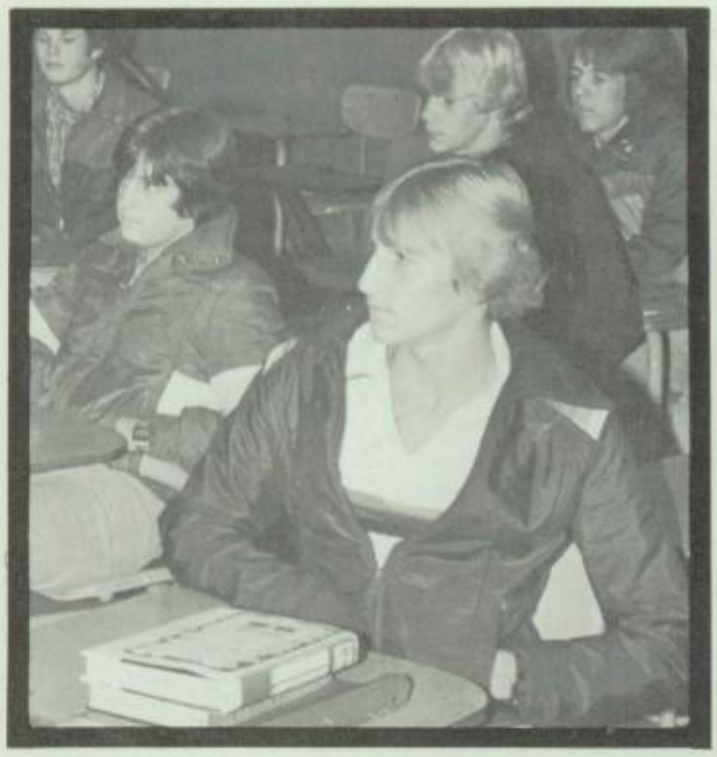
The Fastest Readers In Town

Have you read a good book lately? If you were a member of the Over 2500 Club, you could have read several books today. The Over 2500 Club is a new club to Hoover. It consists of students who can read extremely fast. Stupid club you say? No, because you must be able to read over 2500 words per minute. Ahh, you knew there was a catch didn't you. The average paperback novel is over 250 pages—which means a club member can read a book in less than a class period. They can read a complete set of encyclopedias in less than a day, and that's just to warm-up.

SHH! DON'T DISTURB HER! Senior Karen Shirk concentrates on reading.



JEFF GRUBBS PAUSES to answer questions about what he has just read.



PRAY FOR SNOW. Patience, it will come.

This year's Ski Club President was Matt Adams. He was assisted by Vice-President Paul Magdaleno and Secretary Treasurer Brent Majors. They had a big turn-out to join the ski club this year with over fifty members. A three day holiday in January gave the members a chance to head up to Heavenly. They also hit the slopes on a few other occasions. Thanks to all the support from club members and officers they had a successful year.

What is it called when you have ninety teenagers from the FUSD, including seventeen from Hoover, pack up in buses and head for Sonora? It's the First Annual Youth Leadership Conference. This experience was shared with many school principals and some of the School Board members. It was developed by Mr. Ron Fleischer, a Hoover teacher, to help student leaders develop better learning, listening, and leading skills. The two and a half days were spent in different sessions, making friends and having fun. On the last evening a simulated school board meeting was held. The fun was shared by the adults and kids alike.

And you thought all that student Government did was to go to monthly Senate meetings. Well, you were wrong. Have you ever wondered who plans school rallies, noon-time activities, and paints signs for games? Well, it's the people in Student Government who do all of this and much more with the help of Mr. Smith and Mrs. Chase. One of their jobs is to promote spirit throughout the school. Without all of the activities that they plan, school wouldn't be nearly as fun. Planning all of these activities takes a lot of time and organization but the people in this class really enjoy it. Robin Holley, as President of the student body, did an excellent job as a leader as did Wayne Dixon as Vice-President, leading the monthly Senate meeting.

They often participate in contests. They also have fund raisers because they are a self supporting organization. Hopefully, by the end of the school year, they will have made enough money from their fund raisers to be able to go to an a amusement park such as Great America or Magic Mountain.

The Play With A Lot of Spirit

In the Fall of 1981, Hoover put on the play "Blithe Spirit". A comedy written by Noel Coward.

The play takes place in the Condomine's house. They invite their neighbors, the Bradman's, over for a seance. Madame Arcati is the obliging, wacky medium who conjours up Mr. Condomine's deceased first wife, Elvira. Elvira makes mischief between Mr. Condomine and his second wife, Ruth. Elvira has a secret motive for coming back. She wants to kill Charles (Mr. Condomine) and have him for herself. Instead she kills Ruth. So now Charles has two spirits running around. Madame Arcati gets an idea from a previous case and we, the audience, find that it was Edith the maid who brought the spirits back. The play ends with Edith in a trance sending the spirits back to where they came from.

This was Ms. Anabo's first Production at Hoover. Mr. Van Meter designed the set and all of the special effects.

SHAWNA SMITH gets into her character. As Madame Arcati, she waltzes around the room preparing seance.

SHAWNA SMITH makes sure she gets her point across, while Barbara, Gregg and Cindy feign interest.

The Production Staff

The pages of this yearbook record the many and varied activities that represent life at Hoover High School. Each class and every student has contributed to that record in some measure. From classroom instruction to athletics, from student activities to co-curricular activities, Hoover students and staff have continued the tradition of excellence, pride in accomplishment and spirit of cooperation that have been characteristic of previous classes.

The administration and staff extend congrat lations to the class of 1982 and wish each seni success in the role that each selects for him herself.

"WHAT WILL THESE KIDS THINK OF NEXT?" Activities Director Neil Smith oversees the noontime class competitions.

Every senior class developes its own personality. The students who made up the class of '82 are all individuals but evolved into a very positive and successful group. This attitude of leadership has made the jobs of the teachers and the administration here at Hoover more enjoyable. We thank you for this.

This year the Fresno Unified School District published a slogan which stated that Fresno schools are the schools that really care about kids. I would like to think that this statement especially applies to Hoover High School and I hope that this has been your experience. The non-certificated staff, the administration and most importantly the faculty at Hoover High have tried to demonstrate this value.

I hope that the memories you have of Hoover High School are pleasant.

Efficiency And Dedication At Work

Before the students and teachers arrive at Hoover in the mornings, one indispensable group is already hard at work. Typing, balancing the books, calling parents, and directing confused students and parents are everyday duties of the office staff. The staff is responsible for keeping the school running smoothly and coping with day to day problems.

In addition, the secretaries spend long hours in the summer preparing to simplify opening day for everyone. Our school wouldn't function effectively if it weren't for these people. The students would be lost if it weren't for all the questions and help they supply. Let's hear it for the secretaries.

Learning To Communicate

English is a requirement for all students in the tenth and eleventh grades. For this reason, Hoover's English Department has grown into Hoover's largest department, employing 13 teachers.

Hoover's Forensic squad competes in speech tournaments throughout the county and state. The catagories of competition include debate, impromptu, expository, extemp, and original oratory.

The Drama Department provides students with an opportunity to gain practical knowledge in the performing arts by acting on stage, designing costumes, and building sets.

The news publication at Hoover, better known as the Heritage, is edited and published by the journalism class. Students are taught creative writing, methods of research, the solicitation of advertisements, and procedures of conducting interviews.

Hoover's Math Department is designed to give the student a chance to experience a wide variety of math related studies by offering; Math in Life, Algebra 1 and 11, Geometry, Trigonometry, Calculus, and even a computer class which places emphasis on computer programming.

Mathematics are becomming more and more important each year, espęcially with new developments in engineering, space exploration, construction and computer technology.

The Math Department, headed by Mrs. Bernice Eidson, provides the preliminary training necessary for students who are interested in pursuing a career in one of these vocations.

Exploring Other Cultures

Besides learning the skill of learning a foreign language, students learn the customs and traditions of the country they are studying.

Through the use of tape recorders and films, teachers and students work together in an effort to master the language they are studying. Those students with more than a classroom interest can join a foreign language club as well. These groups help to further the understanding of a particular language.

Although foreign language is not a required course, many students experience it once during their stay at Hoover.

Means of Decoration and Communication

Man has come out of the cave with art as his constant companion. He used the walls of his cave for his canvas. A piece of bone served as his brush. This art served not only as a means of decoration, but also as a means of communication. Hoover is doing its share to keep art alive and flourishing.

The Hoover Art Department helps interested students to express themselves more effectively through their work. The Art Department provides the opportunity for each student to explore his own personal interests.

Hoover's Industrial Art Department is especially designed to provide students with a talent for handiwork with the opportunity to improve their skill for future training or employment. Car repair, wood and metal construction, and a knowledge of electricity enable students to become efficient in the maintenance of their surroundings.

Mr. Ray Damir heads the Hoover Social Science Department, which includes such courses as American Government, U.S. History and World Geography. Unique, threatening, and required are just a few of the words that students have used to describe their History and/or Government classes. The traditional classroom has been replaced with a program that encourages independence, creativity, discussion groups, and rotating teachers. Conducting an election in class provides an actual learning experience. Guest speakers with backgrounds in political science give students an opportunity to learn first hand of proposed plans for the future.

Homemaking Acquaints Students With Home Life

Hoover's corridors abound with tantalizing aromas and ring with the clatter of sewing machines as the homemaking classes get to work. Students not only learn to cook and sew, but they also learn valuable lessons in family budgeting, child care, and adult living.

Hoover's Homemaking Department, supervised by Mrs. Eula Leslie, offers: Family Foods, an introduction to planning, purchasing, preparing and presenting foods; Family Clothing; Personal/Social Living.

Introduction To Careers

Here at Hoover High School, all students are encouraged to take one year of Typing, Shorthand or Accounting, and as time allows, more courses of their choice. Everyone should have a salable skill when they leave high school.

Everyone needs some basic business training to be able to function in our society. We all earn money, pay taxes, borrow money, buy, sell, and in many ways come in contact with business everyday of our life. Some people learn the skills needed to cope with this part of their life in school. For some though, this training comes from the school of hard knocks.

Skills and Sportsmanship Conveyed

Physical Education gives students a chance to get out from behind a desk and get away from the books. After spending all day in the classroom, fresh air and exercise help clear the cob webs of the mind.

To aid in developing the qualities of the perfect physical speciman, courses from bowling to badminton are offerd.

Deep involvement by each student in the recreational sport of each choice will help combat the tensions endured in the classroom.

What am I going to do without you next year? I just don't know! Looking over this yearbook I realized how much you meant to me, & now your up & leaving! Why couldn't you have been born two years earlier? I want to thank you for all the good times, advice, caring, & understanding you've given me this year. I really appreciate it! God, I bet I couldn't even count the times we went to lunch together. Wasn't it fun? We had it crankin' didn't we? Alas, school is almost over, but lets "let the Good Times Roll" huh? I don't want you to forget me, or stop calling, or coming over or anything like that okay? Ha! Ha! Ha! I was just remembering the time we ditched 6th & went & got planks. We almost didn't make it back in time, remember? I do. Close call.

I wish you all the happiness in the world regarding your future & everything else. I'm sure you're going to become a super photo-journalist. Don't you ever give up or I'll never forgive you, but remember me when your famous!!! Eddie, you're really made my sophomore year "most enjoyable" or should I say just plain fun? I'm going to miss you over the next 2 school years, but I know you'll keep in touch, so I don't have to worry! Have a great summer & The Fall Season but keep it cool okay? SENIOR QUARTERBACK, Jody Allen, makes a break for it.

We at Hoover High School are very proud of the Varsity Football team and the spirit the team has brought to our campus.

The 1981-82 football team was unique: while their record was four and six, their determination was unfailing and their courage was high. Leadership under captains Jody Allen and Chris Riley made a strong direction for the team.

In pass defense the Hoover defensive backs were number one in the league. Even though the 81-82 season was rough the team's spirit grew because of their hard work and unwillingness to give up.

J.V. Shows Their Talent!

The Hoover High School, Junior Varsity Football team, otherwise known as the "future green machine", has shown great potential and talent this year, along with balance and precise execution.

Achieving goals was the power behind the J.V.'s season. The team finished the season with a 1-9 record, but this record was not a true reflection of this outstanding team's determination, strength, and individual effort.

"Every ball game was very close. We had a chance to win every ball game we were in," said J.V. Football Coach George Peverill.

According to Peverill, the J.V. offensive squad was unable to execute their plays. "At times we moved the ball, and at times the offense made critical mistakes," said Peverill.

The team showed enthusiasm and pride off the field as well as on. Their spirit showed through to the rest of the student body, and made them exciting to watch.

Excellent coaching by Coach Peveri and his assistants, Bob Lopez and Bra Cowles, provided the leadership neede by the team.

The Awards Banquet was held on D cember 2nd. Steve Woods was voted t most improved player and Jorge Galv was voted the most valuable player.

Varsity H_20 Polo Team Swims To Victory!

"The waterpolo team really believed in themselves this year", Coach Hammel explained. And for that reason they zoomed to the top. With only two starters from last year, the team really pulled through. This year was the first time they went through the league games undefeated. The team held on to the Valley title for two years in a row. As Coach Hammel indicated, no school has ever done that before. For the 4th year in a row they were North Yosemite League champions, and in a 9 year term they won 143 games and lost only 32. This year the team won 22 games and lost 3.

Tom Robinson was voted most valuable player in the League and in Valley. He scored 183 times in 2 years and broke the old record of 173 times in 3 years. Bill Mortimer, Tom Gleason, and Mike Stuart were chosen first team NYL players.

The team would like to give special thanks to Terry Giffen and Bob Diparsloot for the time they spent helping the waterpolo team become successful. Without them they couldn't have done it. THANKS AGAIN!

Pate Volleyball Team Bumps, Sets and Spikes to N.Y.L.

Hoover's Girl's Varsity Volleyball team did well this season with a winning record of 10-8. Although they did not obtain the usual 1st or 2nd place, they did receive 4th in the N.Y.L. standings. The team was led by three returning senior players, Camilla Brown, Ashlyn Lujano, and Lisa Lund. Ashlyn was voted Most Valuable Player for the 1981 season.

The coach, Mikki Horn, is a former Hoover Volleyball player. The team really had a lot of spirit this year, which helped them in their games. The Varsity team will be getting a lot of good players next year. To an outstanding team, good luck in the 82-83 season.

I have enjoyed knowing you this year and having you in P.S.L. (long live Silva) and in Photo. The great thing about you is that you really enjoy your work and you do a great job at it. I hope you will reach your goals and surmount them. I look forward to seeing you in 1987 you will be easy to spot; the one with the cameras, flashes, bag, and V.W. hat. Varsity Shoots For The Top

The gym was roaring with the yells of cheerleaders. Ken Engel stepped to the free throw line and the referee handed him the basketball. Ken bounced it once, twice, three times. He set it up and it flew through the air going directly into the hoop. The Hoover crowd went wild as the faces of the opposing team mirrored dejection.

The ball was thrown back in and the two teams moved down the court. The opposing team tried for the hoop and the ball bounced off of the backboard. Kyle Duke stole the ball and dribbled up the court as both teams chased wildly after him. He reached the key with both teams at his feet and made a perfect slam dunk.

Tough competition made our shootin' stars, work hard for a win, but the crowd was always assured of a more than exciting game.

Wrestling is a team sport which stands alone. Not many people understand its strategies and that exceptional wrestlers are few and far between. With the knowledge and skill gained from constant practice, the wrestler's reflexes become sharp and quick to meet an equally aggressive opponent. Without a doubt, wrestling, probably more than any other sport, stresses individual strength and stamina from an athlete. During the course of a match, wrestlers of equal weight are pitted against one another. They strive to achieve victory over their opponent by utilizing their skill, strength and quick reflexes.

Many people often forget about Junior Varsity and Sophomore sports. They do, however, play a very important part in Hoover sports, and wrestling is no exception. To be on the J.V. team means putting in just as many hours of hard work as the Varsity team. This takes a great deal of dedication. Many talented individuals on this year's J.V. team will undoubtedly be headed for next year's Varsity team.

The Junior Varsity Basketball team showed that it takes more than just a pretty face to get the applause of a cheerling crowd. The team had a good year with a 7-11 record.

"It was a very big improvement over last year," said Coach Julie Domingo. She hopes for an even better team next year.

Powder Puff Football is sponsored by Campus Life, which is a Christian organization affiliated with Youth for Christ - an off-campus organization.

Powder Puff is a lot of fun, and a good chance to meet new people, but it's also a lot of hard work in icy cold weather. There were many cold fingers, a few scratches and scrapes and even a bump on the head. And they call this flag football? The coaches are part of what made being on the team so much fun. They had a lot of patience with us even though they did laugh at our mistakes. They always watched out for us though and kept us from getting cold by making us run laps.

Out of the five games we played, without a doubt, the most memorable one had to be against Bullard in the mud. It was impossible to run without slipping. The final score was 29-7 (Hoover). By the time we left the field, we looked like we had been mud wrestling instead of playing football. This was the only game we won, and we didn't make the finals but we still had a great time.

The Spring Season

Next Stop World Series?

Baseball, perhaps one of the most popular spring sports, heads into the '82 season with great hopes. The team has made it to the valley playoffs for the past two years, and with the help of the senior ball players maybe three will be the charm. Also assisting will be Hoover's coaching staff, consisting of Head Coach Hal Froese, who has been coaching the varsity team for three years, and George Omachi, who has put countless hours of his own time into the club. The juniors of the club also play a big part. Next year they will be leading the team to the fourth great season.

Playing The Field

Hoover's great happenings of 1982 continued on the Junior Varsity baseball diamond this year. With many top sophomores and a large number of juniors coming out for the team, Coach Herzog was nothing but pleased with the results. The players never gave up this year, striving hard to reach their goals. Hoover rode up the North Yosemite League ladder to the top with their Patriot Pride shining through like a flashlight in the fog! Returning to the Pate squad this year were some excellent juniors: Vince Magri, Doug Zavala, John Forestiere, Brennan Wheelock, Paul Martinez, and Kurt Rennels. Also contributing heavily to the Hoover team were super sophomores Chris Lockett, Rick Van Galder, and Sean McClendon. Team spirit, team sportsmanship, and team play lead to team victories for the 1982 Patriot batters. Hoover is extremely proud of your fine efforts.

Patriots Are A Hit

Hoover's Softball team provided their North Yosemite League rivals with plenty of competition during the 1982 season.

The team consisted of determined girls who constantly gave it their best during the games. Coached by Marcia McGinnis, the numerous amount of sophomores will provide for an even better team next year. Coach McGinnis was assisted by Karin Johnson.

Softball got some deserved attention when their new softball diamond was built on the Northwest side of the Hoover field.

Many people don't realize that softball players practice and train just as hard as the other sports. Aside from that, many of the girls play Miss Softball America during summer.

Softball is played basically the same way as baseball, with a few exceptions. In softball, the ball is pitched underhand, instead of overhand. The bases are also closer together.

WHO'S ON FIRST? Leisle Williams and Beth Kellogg compete to see which girl can reach the ba

For being a relatively new sport here at Hoover, in existence for only the past 5 years, Hoover has had tremendous success in softball. This year was no exception. Coach McGinnis definitely should be proud of the team.

On The Run

IT'S O.J. Running through airports isn't his only hobby.

In track, as in all sports, teams can not win championships on talent alone. A team must get one-hundred percent effort from every individual if it is to be successful. Talent, pride and determination are keys to a successful win.

Every task met will be met with strength, stamina and teamwork. Their athletic abilities and positive attitudes helped lead them on to victory.

Track offers a person many tough challenges, such as achieving tough record breaking marks.

Each person contributes to the making of the team. The Patriot Pride shows through in every teammate.

The Girls Are On The Right Track

The 1982 Hoover's Girls' Track had a sensational year! Coach Julie Domingo, had a great season that featured many broken records, many new friendships and sportsmanship. Track involves many long hours of hard practice and dedication. They do various things; the half mile relays, the 440, 220, and the 100 yard dash, standing long jump, and many more. Getting prepared for running, the girls do warm-ups such as stretching, pull ups, leg exercises and other various things that help the team win. One of our runners, Linda Billing, comments that she loves to run and participate in sports because she feels that it is a challenge. Congratulations to you all.

Mens' Volleyballers Set Up For Victory With Determination

Coach Kliff Justesen did another outstanding job coaching this year's fabulous Hoover Patriot Mens' Volleyball team, with the help of the assistant coaches, Gary Fish, Mike Herrick, and Keith Tonooka. This excellent group of Volleyballers not only proved that they were tough opponents in the North Yosemite League, but also that they had talent and spirit to come out on top.

The word "Win" was frequently in the minds of these "macho" athletes. It took a concentrated effort by all the team members. They showed that tremendous Pate Pride and skillful knowledge were key formulas for another successful season.

Returning players were Tom Austin, Wayne Dixon, Robert Haar, Kris Johnson, Vahe K. Messerlian, Bill Murphy, Hien Ngo, Victor Takahashi, Marty Tokubo, and Matt Tom. Congratulations to this terrific group of "macho dudes" for their fine sportsmanship and representing Hoover well.

A sensational season for the Pates swim team.

What do Frogs, Fish, Whales, and Surfers all have in common? If you said they're girls who go to Hoover, your only half right. They sure are girls, but these girls are the members of the GIRLS' SWIMMING TEAM. These girls put many hours of long and hard work outs everyday for four months. This gave the girls the chance to compete against other girls just like themselves. "The dedication we girls give is more than anyone could ever ask," said Andrea Adolph(a member of the team). Patriot Divers Do It Off The Deep End!!!

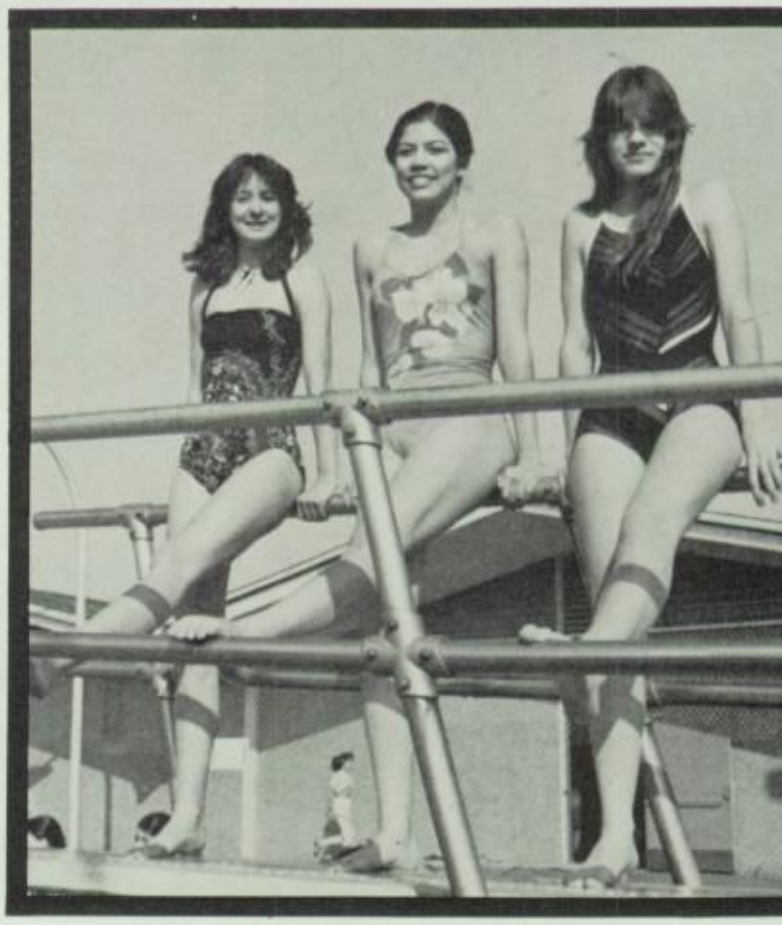
OH NO!! "I'd better start to concentrate on my diving, Coach Shirk is watching me," Lisa Balzer exclaims.

COACH SHIRK demonstrates a new dive.

ON THE WAY TO THE SKY! Reaching for new heights is talented Pate diver Kevin Harris.



THREE GIRLS THREE! It seems like some people are never shy.

OPEN ARMS!!! That great song by Journey has James Stuart trying his imitation.

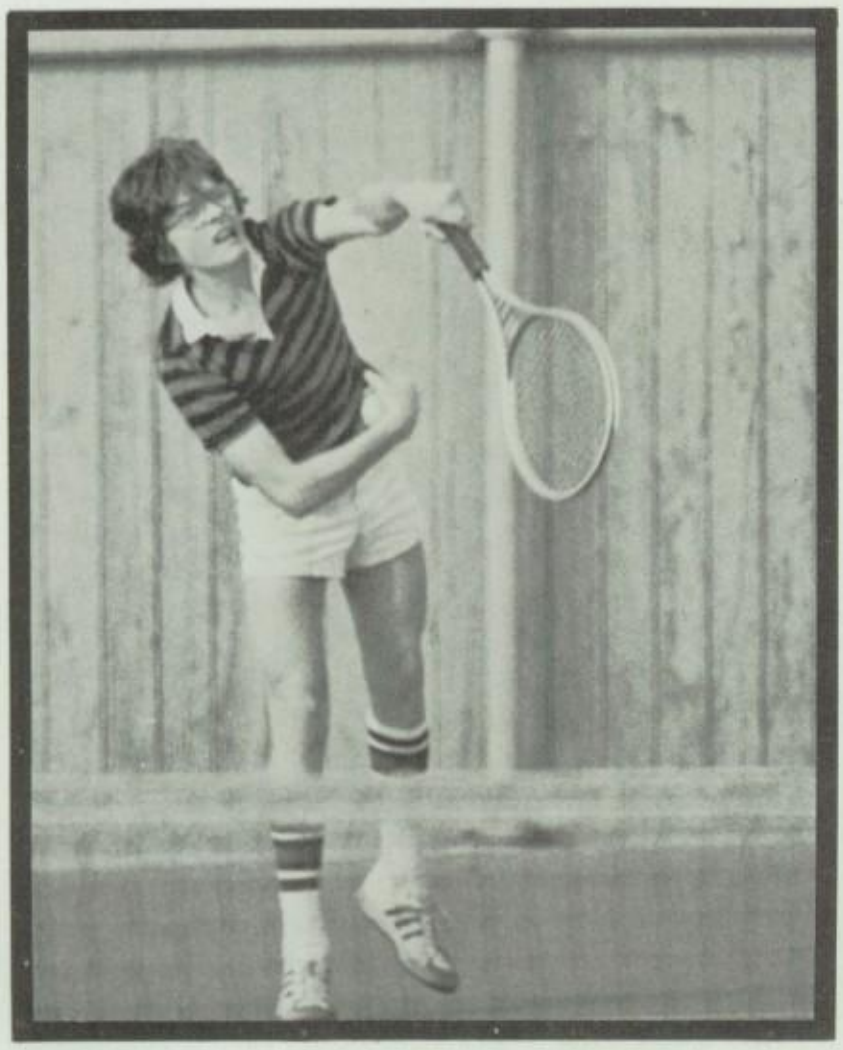
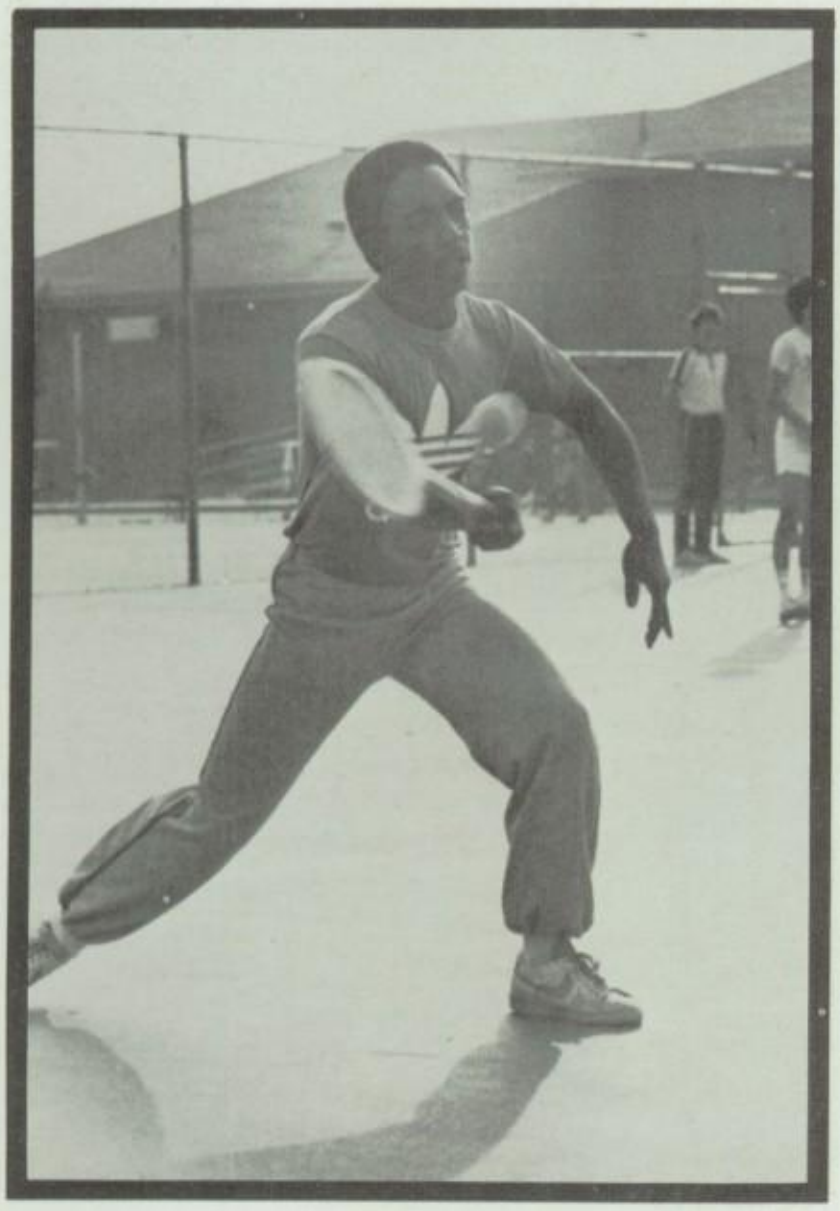
The 1982 Hoover Patriot Diving Team made quite a splash this year! Every day after school, this talented group of divers could be seen out in the pool, practicing for the intense upcoming meets. Although Diving is a relatively new sport at Hoover, and one which isn't too well known, many students were interested, which certainly put a smile on Coach Susan Shirk's face. A few of the top Patriot Divers this year included Murray Wilson and returnees Lisa Balzer and Nancy Pennington. This is excellent news for Coach Shirk, because all three are Juniors, and will be returning to the team next year. Many people don't know it, but Hoover's Diving meets go hand in hand with the Pate Swimming meets. Without the Divers, the Swimming Team wouldn't be as successful, since the two team scores are added together to achieve an overall swim meet Champion! The team's Patriot Pride and tremendous spirit won out, as the team had a successful season. Congratulations and good luck to a fine group of excellent divers!

Tennis, That's Our Racket!!

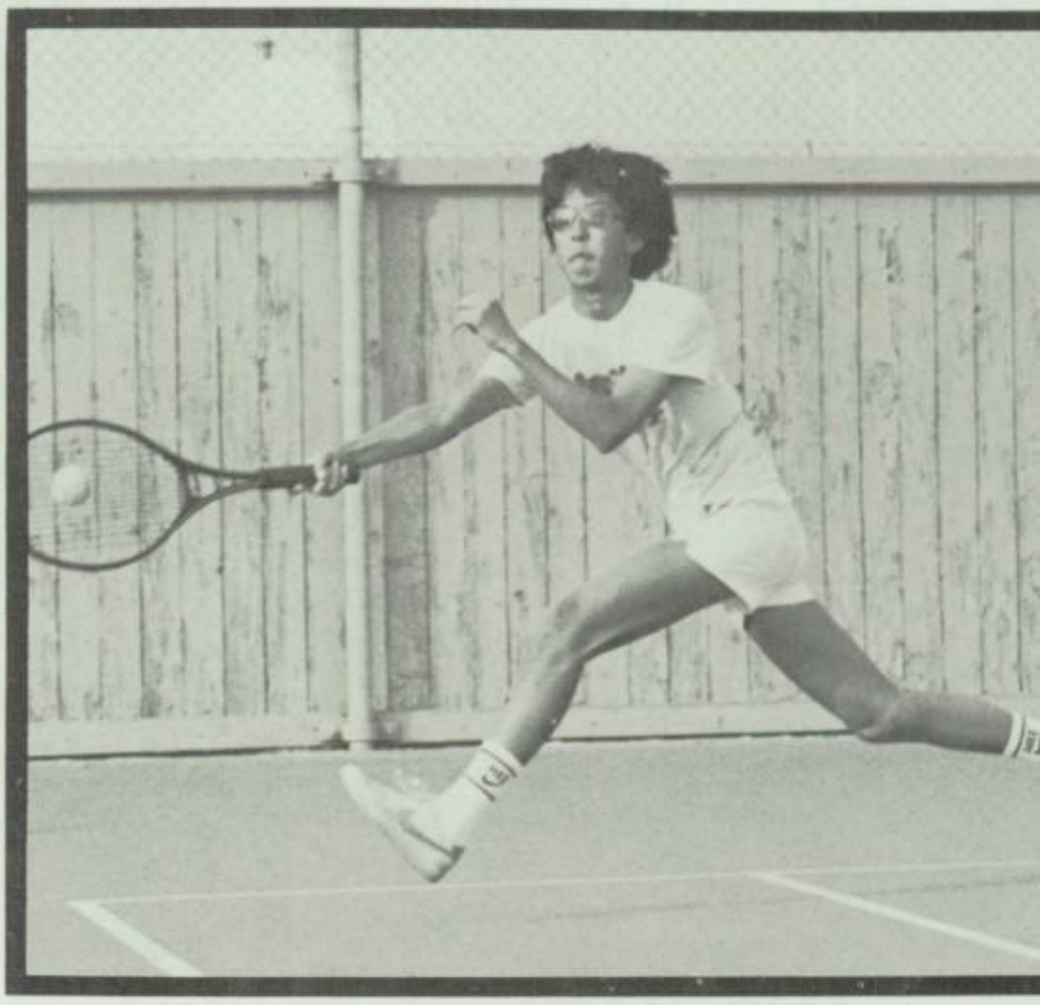


HELP!! . . . but coach, I feel so deformed when I hit it backhand.

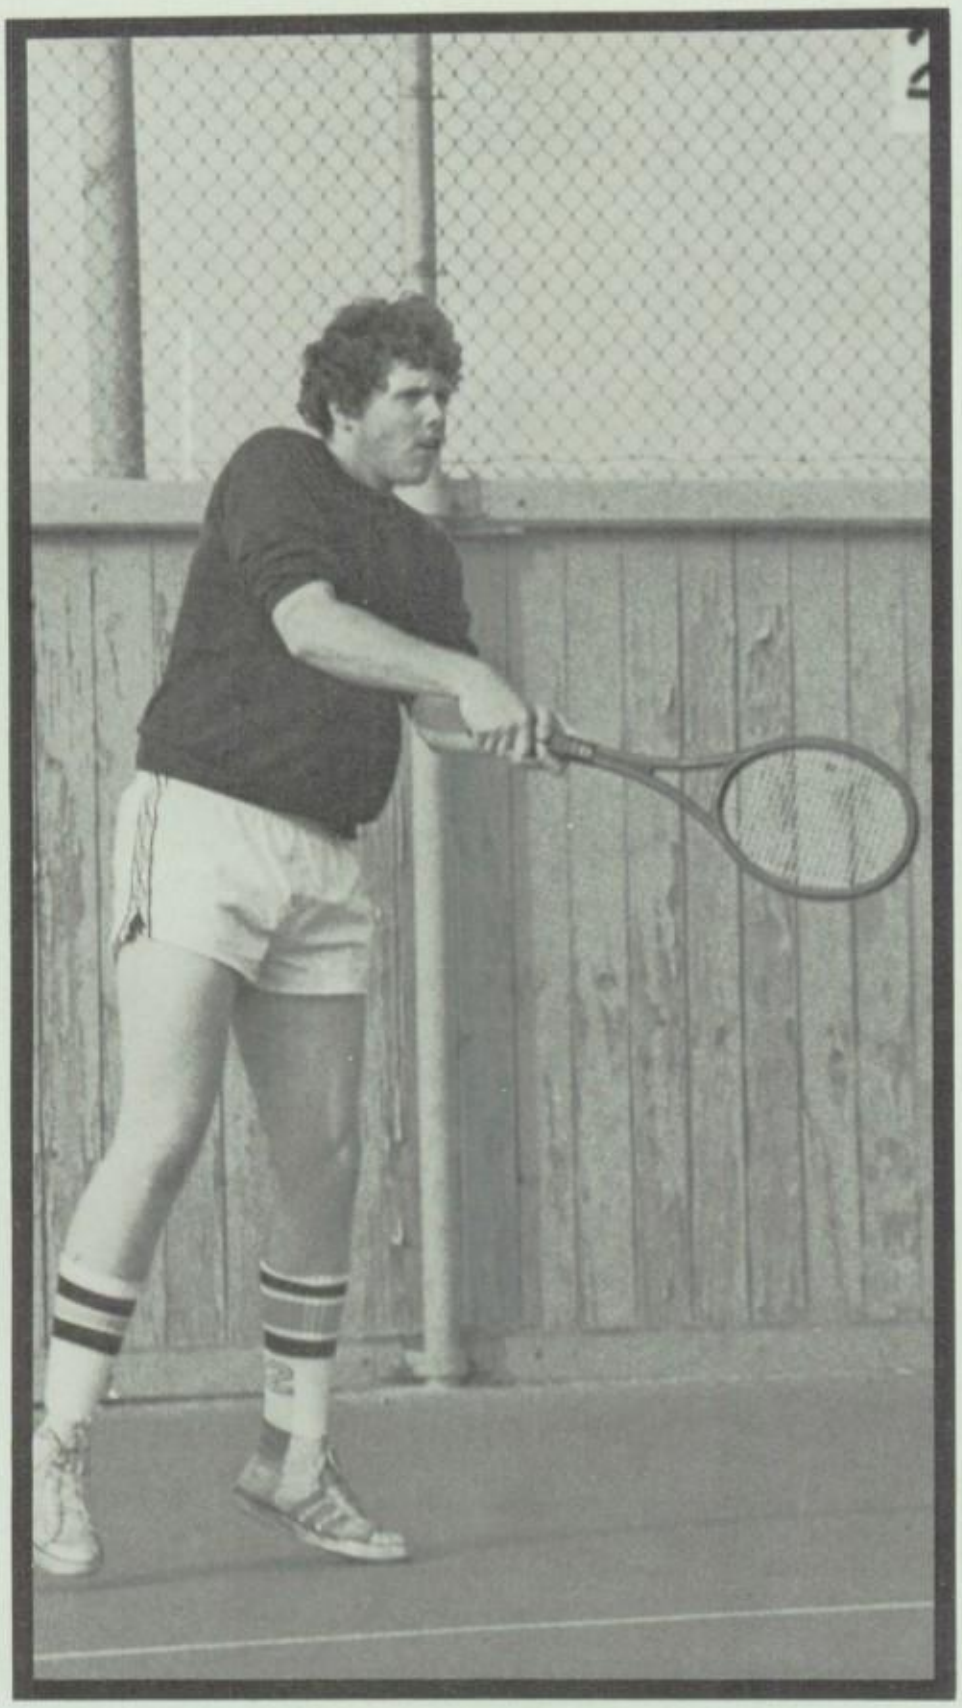
THOUGHTFUL PLANNING. Now, if I can just hit it so it goes to his left side .



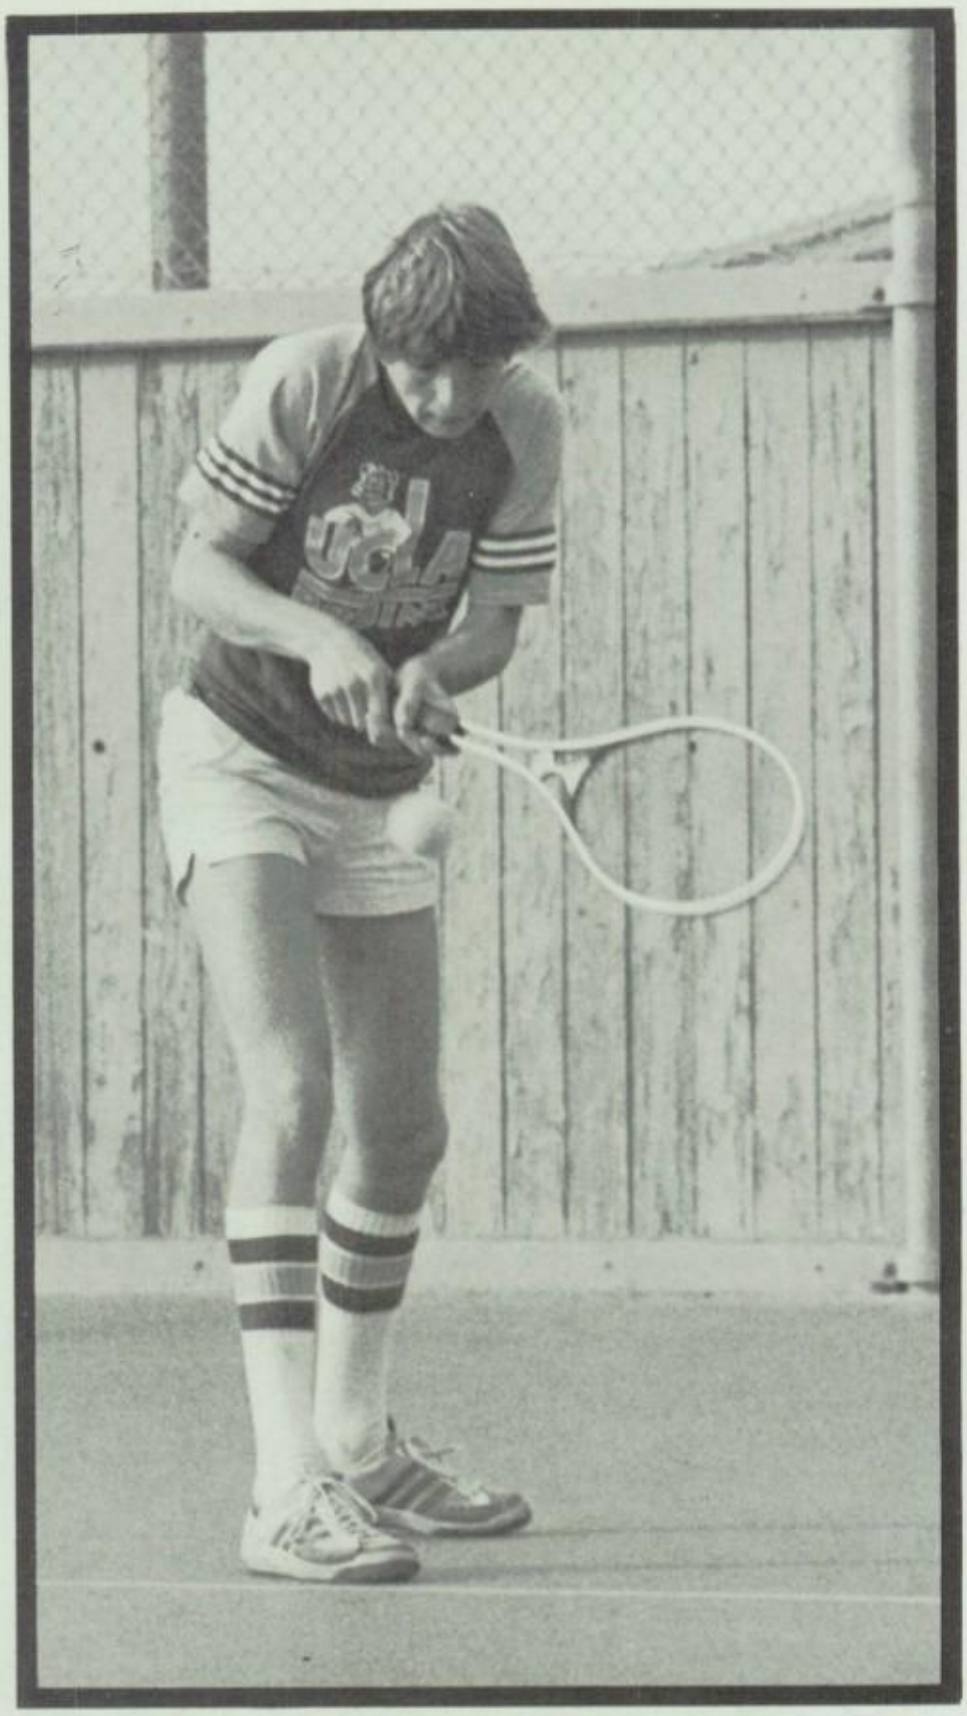
Are you kidding me? I can get this one over easy!



SPRINTING. Boy, I've got to really stretch to reach the one's this guy hits!



SURPRISE! Wow! . . . Did I really hit it that far? I can't believe I did it.



FRISKY. Ew, ugh, look at that dirty little thing. You expect me to hit that?

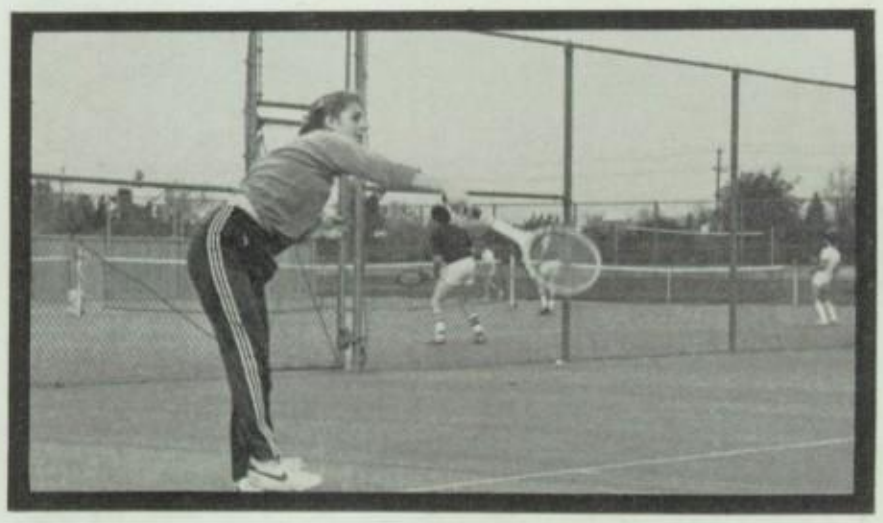
This year's Boys' Tennis Team worked together courageously with their talent and spirit bringing them out on top. They were the best on the court, running so fast to show a good game that they could have caught their shorts on fire. They can even stop on a dime and give you nine cents change when it comes to playing a good game.

The team really swung into action this year, showing with a stroke of genius that tennis is their racket!

Tradition Of Winning

Suriya Jeyapalan strives for perfection with every hit.



Carol Boline goes for the gusto while astounding her opponent.

The Hoover Girls' Tennis Team has a tradition of winning. For the past two years, the team has placed second in the NYL and second in the Valley. Compiling a 31 win 6 loss record.

The 1982 version was no exception to this winning spirit. Returning seniors Carol Boline and Susan Davis added strength and leadership to this young team. All members worked hard to obtain a closeness that teams rarely exhibit.

To earn money for equipment and uniforms the team sponsored a Tennis-A-Thon. All members sought out pledges and played ten straight hours of tennis!

Third year Coach Karen Sowby works the team hard and expects a lot from her players, but with such a successful record to uphold nothing less would be acceptable to the coach or the team members.

Cherie Jew is caught in action reaching for a high ball.

It's hard to believe it's possible to play tennis on one foot.

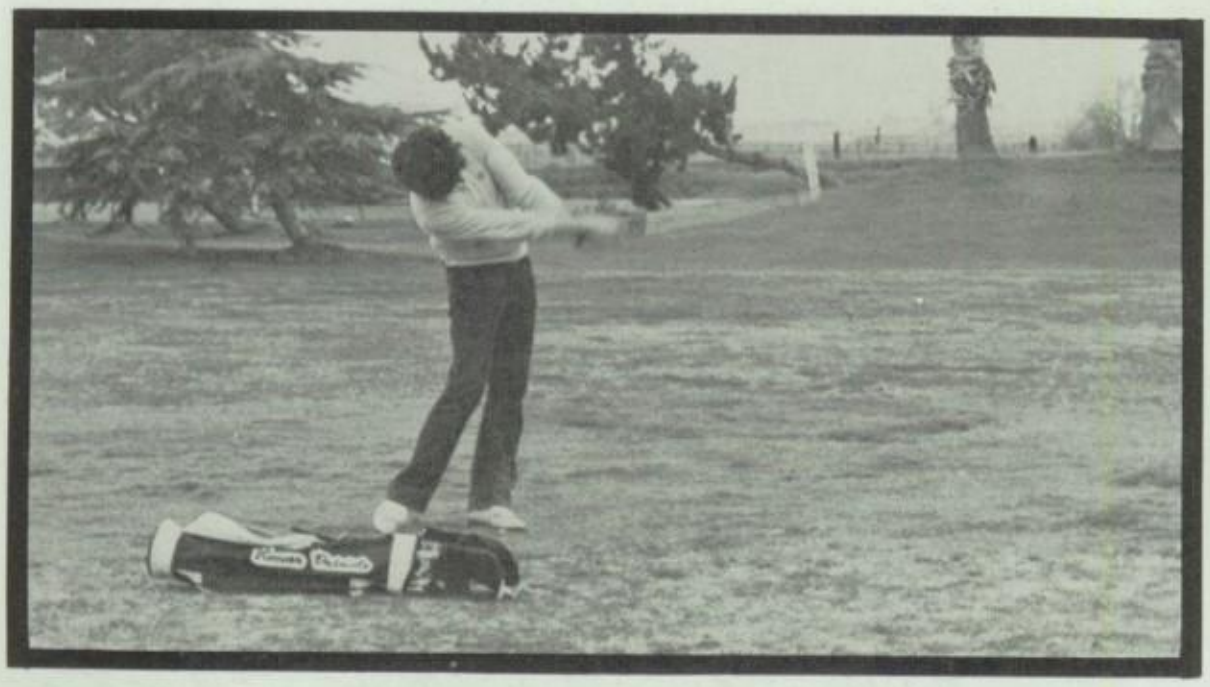
Sherri shows good form in her follow through, but needs a lesson on smiling.

Coach Sowby swings her stuff in an effort to demonstrate her technique to the nearby team.

Susan square dances with her racket in between matches.

Pates Swing For The Green

The Hoover Golf Team this year is led by Senior veteran John Kutumian. He is a solid mature golfer who should do well through out the season. Slow starting senior Mike Kasparian may prove to be a winner late in the season during the League Finals. The Varsity in general will struggle to finish in the top three. The J.V. Team is lucky to have 6 sophomores who have golf experience. They are led by two tough competitors, Jeff Brown and Lance Capel. Look for the J.V.'s to emerge as a powerful force in 3 years!



BOY, would you look at that professional swing just completed by a future pro golf player?

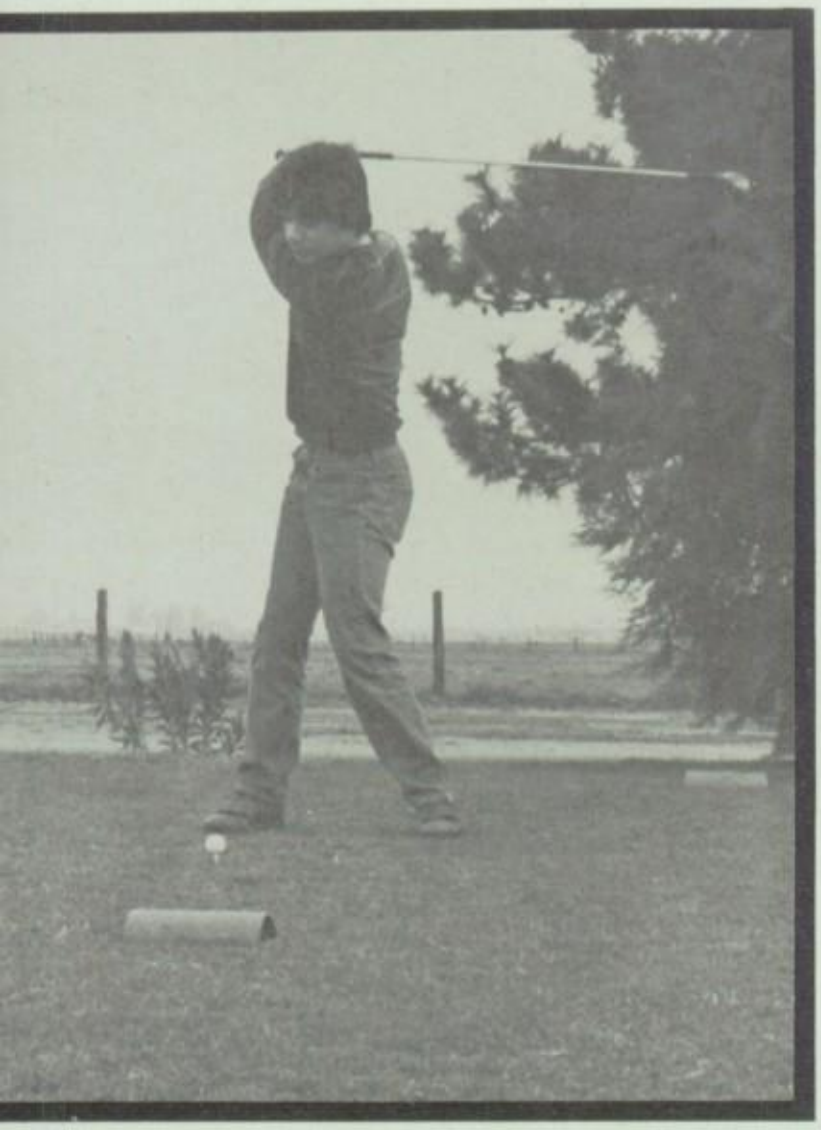
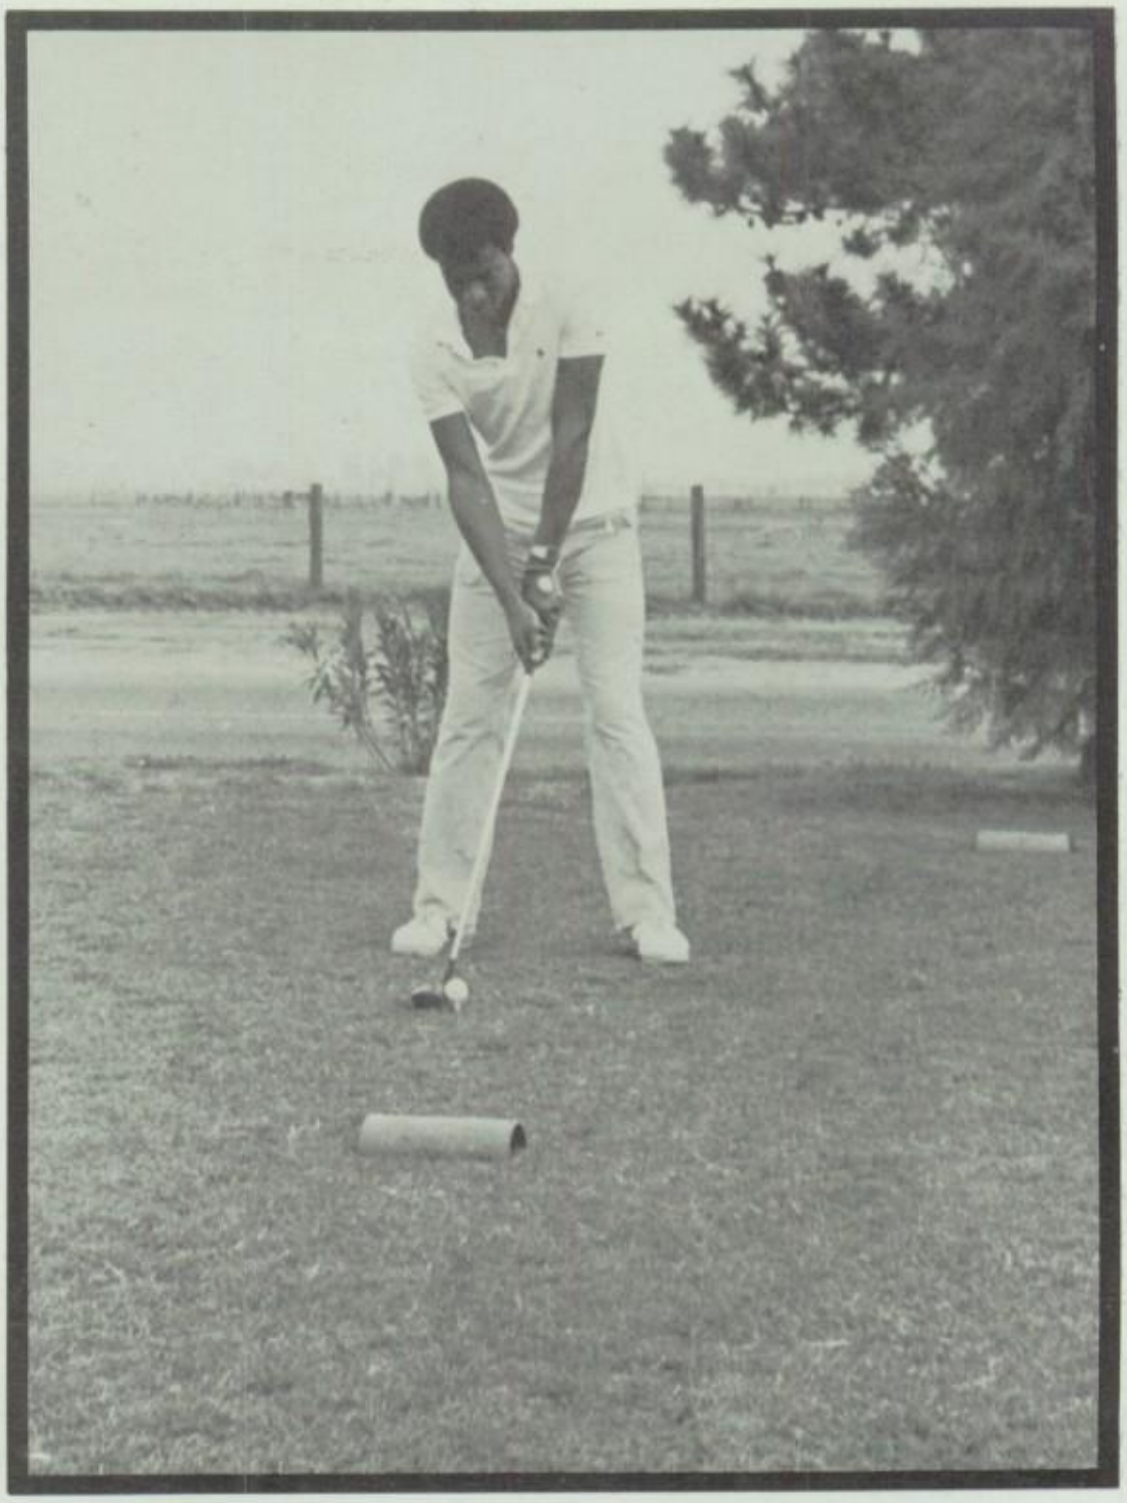
DAVID KASPARIAN plays croquet with a golf club ball?

CHUCK BARKER says, "move that ball back where it

VIN OLISON concentrates as he gets ready to hit a hole-in-one.

HN KUTUMIAN convinces himself that the ball will stay on the tee.





"WE'RE BAD, we know it, we're here, to show it," says Lance Capel and Troy Nunez.

Leaders of the Pack

We came together from many different areas. Some of us were born in the Fresno area but didn't get to know each other until we came to Hoover. We were the first class in the desegregation program. We were bussed in the ninth grade to learn how to cooperate with people different than ourselves. Some of us went to Freshman schools, but all of us led the way for the following classes.

As a class, our basic goals were to enjoy the experiences at Hoover High. We tried to keep communication between teachers and students open, so we could learn more.

One thing our class did do was try! We were in charge of the 1981 Junior-Senior Prom, and it was a great success. We all worked together and had a lot of fun. We learned from the organizing and the teamwork.

There are many differences between the time our parents went to school and when we did. They weren't surrounded by drugs and alcohol like we are today. They were under different peer pressures than we were.

The spirit at our football games was great. We yelled screamed for hours, and then we couldn't talk for days. the banners were torn, and the game was over, most of us for pizza. I sometimes wonder how we all fit inside. It was to find a seat, or get your pizza before 11:00.

Most of the 1982 Senior class is bound for college. Our sonalities and ideas are going to take us into different are life. Just as we came from many different areas ourselves. become doctors, lawyers, politicians, parents, etc. Whe you are, let someone know your address, so we can get a ho you for the reunion.

I want to thank the people who helped me in the Senior activities. I've had many memorable years here, becau you. Thanks.

School Spirit Lives On

School spirit brings back good memories o year, for it is spirit and enthusiasm that m high school fun. Plenty of spirit was always p sent at Patriot football games, where many s dents could be found cheering in the confe filled stands.

There is much more to school spirit than fo ball games, however. Many students often p ticipated in class competitions, which added a of excitement to lunchtime, as did intra-mu whiffle ball tournaments. The band also contr uted a feeling of pride, not only at games a rallies, but in Washington D.C. where they tr eled in April, representing Hoover and the res California.

Cheerleaders and Pep Girls, as well as peo involved in sports, provided entertainment students at rallies, making them a success.

Enthusiasm subsides though, as this y comes to an end, for Seniors are now look forward to graduation and their future, wh others look forward to summer vacation; but triot pride and spirit will return in the fall whe new generation of students replace the old.

What Are Your Plans For The Future?

Mike Reyes: I'll have to see. Right now I'm planning for the summer.

Lisa Richards: Going to college after high school. Who knows after that?

Jeffery Robbins: I'm not sure, maybe a bible college, maybe in another country, just somewhere where I'm learning.

Chuck Barker: Go to college, have some fun, party moderately and have some more fun, then go to college.

Mark Kazanjian: Go to college, watch the Bulldog basketball games.

Stephanie Lubbes: To attend Fresno State and major in child phychology and somewhere down the line get married.

Chris Self: I plan on taking the proficiency in November and starting at Fresno City College next semester. In about 2 years, depending on my grades, I'll go to Fresno State.

Tom Austin: Go to college, probably Fresno State University.

Laura Saywell: To go to college in Boulder, Colorado, and SKI!! I'll major in getting through!!

Kris Johnson: Go to Fresno State and play soccer. I also plan on getting a degree in Engineering, have job offers galore, and choose one with the most money.

Jeff Owen: My plans for the current future are going to college and majoring in Engineering. Going to college isn't too different from a lot of other Seniors, but what happens after, and in between, will probably be very different.

Julie Winegar: To go to college, I'm not sure which one; but to attend one of them. Have a happy and fullfilling life.

Somewhere Over The Rainbow.

Imagine traveling to a foreign country to live for a year. You find the people, customs, and education are totally different. This is just what Petter Lidbeck did when he left his home in Helsingborg, Sweden.

After hearing so much about America from friends who had traveled here, Petter decided that he wanted to see what the United States was like for himself. He found that California isn't just living on the beach and surfing. Even so, he likes Fresno.

Petter found the United States very different from Sweden. The school system here gives students more freedom than in Sweden. They don't choose their own classes there. There is also a much greater emphasis put on school sports here than in Sweden. He especially likes going to Me-N-Ed's after football games.

There isn't as much to do in Fresno for teenagers as there is in Sweden, Petter said. In his country, a typical Friday night might be spent riding a ferry boat to Denmark.

Petter remarked that people are very friendly here, contrary to a more reserved attitude of the Swedish. He has made many new friends here, but especially wants to thank the Forden for allowing him to spend this their home. "I couldn't ask for a family," he said.

When asked about his opin

RONA BARRETT. Linda Dixon and Amy Ogata listen to the latest gossip from Evelyn S

End Of School Year Brings Happy Memories And Forgettable Moments.

No more having to wake up earlier than the crack of dawn for another three months. Wow! Yes our Junior year has come to an end and what a year it has been.

Remember the first day as Juniors, and how superior we felt to the incoming Sophomores. We gave them the same old treatment we got as sophomores. Most Juniors will probably remember teasing the Sophomores as a fun part of school.

Of course, being a Junior was not always fun and games. Remember the PSAT test on October 27th. Those Juniors who did take it probably found the first three or four problems easy, but discovered it went downhill from there.

Taking History was another not so enjoyable part of being a Junior. Some Juniors did like History, while the majority could not read a History book for longer than ten minutes at a time. The classtime gave students a chance to nap once in a while and pass notes to keep up with the latest gossip.

Being a Junior also meant having a driver's license and not having to walk to school everyday. It was also the last year we are required to take P.E.

Well, in the end, the great time we had as Juniors probably outweighed the bad and we'll miss being a Junior.

Senior year will be even better. We can look forward to being the top students of the school, and maybe we'll still be teasing the new sophomores and maybe juniors. Watch out, Hoover, we're Seniors now!

JUNIOR JIMMY GEORGE finally opens his history textbook.

Female Drum Major Is No Coward . . . Just A Real Nice Cowart!

There's been a strange happening on the Hoover High school campus this year. The Patriot Marching Band, for the first time in its history, has been under the direction of a female Junior Drum Major. Her name is Randa Cowart.

Randa was a flag girl for two years before becoming the Patriot's leader during try-outs last May. She has been a flag girl in the Roosevelt High School Band as a freshman, and was a flag girl last year in Hoover's band.

Ironically, "The Pride of the San Joaquin Valley" last year was led by Drum Major Rex Cowart, Randa's older brother. Rex helped Randa in her quest of becoming Drum Major by teaching her how to twirl and march properly while holding the mace. When asked how he feels about his sister following in his footsteps, Rex said, "I think it's really neat. Randa is really good."

Besides being a member of the Patriot Band, Randa is also an active member of Hoover's Student Government, and the Golden Valley Council 4-H. Randa is also an excellent seamstress, having made numerous outfits for which she has won awards. For one specific outfit she has won local competitions, and will now go on to the Nationals.

HERE'S TO YOU, RANDA. We love you, honest.

At band reviews this year, Randa won third place in Visalia's Invitational Band Review, and fourth place at the California State Championships held in Clovis, where she competed against top D Majors from around the state.

Still, Randa isn't totally accepte some members of Band, because she girl Drum Major, As Senior Band m ber Chris May put it, "I think Ra does surprisingly well, for a girl." Ra commented, "Sometimes I fell li have to try harder than the other D Majors do. It seems like people won't attention to what I say just because I girl. But I'll keep doing my job, w hopefully, if I do it right, will get some respect."

Randa has received respect from B judges, though. She has led the Ban first place performances at every com tition they went to this year. Include the Band's Grand Sweepstakes at the salia Band Review.

Randa is a very determined girl, w it comes to things like fund-raising. Band's trip to Washington, she not raised enough money for herself, but raised money to send her family and grandparents along.

From the opening note of "New Y Fantasy" to the spectacular endin "What Kind of Fool Am I", Ra Cowart did a terrific job!

The stage was all set, and the curtains pulled apart. Suddenly the bright lights flashed down on the musicians as they played their first note to get the evening rolling.

For four hours Hoover students and their dates socialized and danced to the music of the band. "A Night on Broadway" the theme of the 1982 Junior-Senior Prom, was held on May 22, as the Star Palace represented "Broadway" for the evening.

The Star Palace, which once used to be the Arthur Murray Dance Studio, was a new location for the Prom this year. Past Proms were usually held at Fresno State University. The Star Palace was decorated in red, white, and black, with life-size silhouettes of famous stars of the 30's and 40's on the wall. The couples were treated to something extra with the addition of valet parking.

Sponsored by the Class of '83, plans got under way as early as last year with the reservation of the Palace. A committee worked throughout the year.

Being An Actress IS Like A Dream Come True

While most three year olds are busy disering the world of toys and playing, lit-Andrea Castellanos was dreaming about life ahead as an actress.

Andrea, now a Junior, is getting close to life-long ambition, and nothing can p her. Andrea says she's wanted to be an ress since she was three and began dancand singing lessons at age six. Andrea progressed as far as having acting nts contact her. To further her career, drea wants to eventually get her own act-agent.

Her first play, "Pinocchio" at Fresno te University led her to many other ys including the "King and I" and amn Yankees" at The Roger Rocka's od Company Theatre. She has also done rog Prince" at Fresno Community Thee and "Look Homeward, Angel" at Hoo-during her sophomore year. Andrea s her toughest part to date was in "A tle Night Music" at Theatre 3 because character was completely different m her own personality, and "a person s to put all their energy into playing the t perfectly," says Andrea.

At this moment, Andrea is a member of Junior Company, which is part of the od Company Players.

She has done several local television commercials and also a Thanksgiving special for the Junior Company. Andrea says the best thing that can happen now is national exposure in a television commercial.

Dedication and confidence are most important for an actress. Andrea says, "You have to be willing to give it your all and be totally committed." Dedication is something Andrea has plenty of. She performed once with a 103 degree temperature and another time with the stomach flu. She spends 10-12 hours a week rehearsing. If she has a play to perform she easily doubles that time. Andrea gives most of the credit to her mother for her success. She also says Playwright Eddie Emahue El has helped her directly with her acting. Andrea also credits Dan Pessano, the acting director at Good Company with helping her. After high school Andrea would like to achieve her full potential as an actress and study acting.

Andrea mentioned that there were two agents interested in her and she's had a few chances to go down to Los Angeles for auditions, but she turned them down because she felt the parts were not right for her.

Andrea sums it up when she says, "For most people, acting is just something to take up time, but for me, it's a way of life."

A STAR IS BORN. Andrea is the Judy Garland of the 80's.

Long Hours Of Practice And Hard Work Promises A Musical Futu

Her love for music began when she was six years old and hasn't stopped since. With her incredible determination and knowledge of the piano, Jennifer Newcomb has won numerous awards.

Of course, practice makes perfect and for Jennifer that means four hours on school days and four to six hours on weekends. "I've never been sorry that I've gotten involved in music. It takes a lot of time and work, but so far its been worth it," Jennifer said of her devotion to practicing.

Jennifer credits part of her success to her instructor, Dr. Bob Bennett, a teacher at Fresno State University. Her turning point began when she started on a road that led her to many competitions and awards. Her first piano competition was when she was fourteen—she tied for first place. As a sophomore, she entered a contest sponsored by the Women's Symphony League and won first place in the piano division and first place overall. As part of the prize, Jennifer got to perform four youth concerts with the Fresno Philharmonic Orchestra.

Last fall, she entered her first out-of-town contest in Los Angeles, and made the finals out of enterees from a music teacher's convention in San Francisco. There were between two and six people chosen from Northern California and Jennifer was glad to be included among the winners.

Ever since Jennifer was in the eighth grade, she has played at recitals and any other programs or performances she is able to. Jennifer believes playing in front of an audience is very helpful. "Performance experience is very important, so I play in public as much as I can." She hopes to be part of many contests and performances this year. Right now she is busy being a member of the Fresno Junior Philharmonic Orchestra, the St. Anthony's Orchestra, the Fresno Wind ensemble, and an alternate for the Fresno Philharmonic Orchestra.

Jennifer not only plays the piano, she takes clarinet lessons as well. She has been playing clarinet since she was eleven.

So whats the future hold for this talented musician? "Music has been really important to me. I want to keep on in music as long as I can, because even though I've taken piano for ten years, I still have a lot to learn. Hopefully, I can have a career in music, but it's too early at this point to know if that will be possible" said Jennifer.

If Jennifer continues with the way she has been winning and performing on the piano, there's no doubt a career in music would be very rewarding for her. We would like to wish Jennifer the best of luck.

PRACTICE, PRACTICE. Jennifer practices at l hours a week!

Future Olympian Ernie Duran Prepares For His Goal Of Being In The 1988 Olympics

How would you like to get up every morning at 5:00 o'clock, go swimming, lift weights until 7:00, then come home after school and swim another three hours? Sounds exhausting, doesn't it? Well, Junior Ernie Duran is definitely used to that kind of life as a competitive swimmer.

Ernie has been swimming competitively for almost ten years. Starting out with the Fresno Swim Club at age seven, he recently joined the Clovis Swim Club. Being such a determined swimmer, Ernie has broken several swim records. At age twelve, he broke the National record for his age group in the 500 freestyle, and ended up being third overall in the U.S. that year, according to a swim magazine. When his club traveled to Mexico, he set two records in the 50 and 200 meter freestyle. He has also made the Junior Nationals for the last two years and he hopes to make Senior Nationals sometime this year.

Ernie was a member of Hoover's swim team as a freshman, while attending Sierra Freshman School. As a Sophomore, he placed first in the 200 and 500 yard freestyle in the North Yosemite League and Valley Championships. Ernie is also an up and rising water polist, helping the team capture the Valley Championship title for the second consecutive year this past fall.

Good luck, Ernie and we'll look for you in the 1988 Olympics.

EXCHANGING THOUGHTS. Erin and Jeff share memories of their pasts.

Erin McGuckin has spent as much time in other countries than she has in the United States. Erin lived in Costa Rica for one year and then moved to Buenos Aires where she spent the next eight years.

Erin, who speaks Spanish fluently, believes living in a foreign country has an advantage. Not only has she had the opportunity to see other countries, but she was forced to learn Spanish, which is helpful in getting a job.

In Buenos Aires, Erin attended a private American school with very strict security due to the number of students who were children of foreign ambassadors.

Erin and her family moved to Argentina because her parents were Southern Baptist missionaries. Her father wrote religious music for the Argentine Baptist churches, while her mother substitiuted in local high schools. Argentina is predominantly a Catholic nation, so everywhere they went, they were sure to see a Catholic Church.

Growing up in a country with a different culture is a terrific experience for anyone, says Erin. Erin is very glad she had the opportunity.

HERE TO STAY. Richard is back after one year in Africa

Student Enjoys Living Overse

Living in a foreign country can definitely be frightening, but the experience is more than worth it in the end, according to Richard Evans. He spent a year living in Nigeria, Africa and says he'll gladly do it again.

Describing the experience as "different", Richard immediately felt the culture shock people had told him about. He claims the streets were in terrible condition and there were people everywhere. He said the driving was so bad in Lagos that it seemed like there was no driving laws.

Richard and his family resided on the University of Lagos campus where his father taught. Richard and his sister attended the American International School on the island of Ikoyi, which was twelve miles away from the house. At the school, he met kids from grades K-10 who were from 35 different countries. Richard made a lot of good, close friends because of their common bond— they were all foreigners. "The friendships that developed between all of us is one that I had never experienced before." Having to live and work together, they all became like brothers and sisters, and Richard learned a lot from his friends of other countries.

Many of them were children of oil co workers that were stationed in Lagos. came from countries like Poland, De Italy, Yugoslavia, Sri Lanka, Germany, and the United States.

Life in Lagos was not an easy one beca various reasons. There were frequent outages which usually lasted all day Shopping for food was also a problem. were only about four or five big shoppin ters in the whole city of 4 million people of the shopping, however, was done ri the streets at little food stands. The prices were fixed only in the stores, and street, bargaining was the way things bought. Richard was scared in the begi but in the end it became a challenge to s cheap he could buy things for. Another lem was the fact that it took ten times to get anything done. That could be ver trating, especially for Richard's fathe had to deal with the Nigerians more th rest of the family.

Life is Lagos, Nigeria was not always ant, but Richard loved the experience prove it, he says living in Lagos "was one best years of my life".

For Sophomores Only??

What's a sophomore? That's a question we've all heard at one time or another. Whether we like it or not, it's a fact of life. As school began in September, we were constantly finding ourselves alone and lost. Too embarrassed to ask questions, we went on our way, pretending to know our way around campus. As the year went on though, we got used to the school, teachers, and students. We joined in on various school activities, found new friends, and had just plain fun. Whether we were involved in football, pep and cheer, band, choir, forensics, yearbook, student government, or something else, we, the class of 84 strived hard to dismiss that infamous "sophomore" stereotype. As long and hard as we tried though, it didn't work. As the 1981-82 school year comes to a close, we still hear those same old sophomore jokes and that wicked question, "What's a sophomore?" Even though we thought we'd never say it, to the class of '85 we ask, "What's a sophomore?"

The Awkward Age.

Sixteen. An age we've all been waiting to reach. It's finally here, and boy are we glad! After all those boring driving sessions in the car, and those disgustingly entertaining films in Drivers Education we can finally get our license! How long have we all daydreamed about our first time behind the wheel? That dream has now become a reality, since our sixteenth birthday. Sixteen also means feeling (at least to ourselves) like adults. Being sixteen means feeling proud when telling someone your age. But, our sixteenth year also brings with it some things that we don't like. One of those things is responsibility. As we grow older, and mature into adults, our parents expect more and more from us all the time. At the age of sixteen we're now able to go out into the working world. But of course, finding a job isn't as easy as people make it sound. Finding a job really isn't the tough part. After we've stumbled into it, we now have to be on time, be friendly, and put up with all the things our employer asks of us. Sixteen. Why did we have to turn sixteen anyway?

Homecoming Excitement Kicked Off By Carnival

STACEY POWERS, Hoover's 1981 Homecoming Queen.

FLY AWAY! The Boosters sponsored a dunk tank.

FINALIST Lisa Martin and escort Paul Salazar.

Homecoming 1981 became more than just the annual football game. An entire week f activities highlighted the year's celebration. Every day, there was class competition luring lunch. There was the annual Homecoming Carnival on Wednesday, October 1, with the first ever Homecoming Dance following. Several hundred Patriots enoyed the food, games, and booths at the carnival, and then journeyed inside the Pate Pavillion for three hours of dancing. The Carnival featured performances by Hoover's Pep and Cheer, Percussion, Lettergirls and Band. Also, Super Pate Chris Riley vas given that title during carnival festivities. Not to be forgotten was the Patriots' Homecoming football game against Clovis High Friday night at Radcliffe Stadium. A large crowd was on hand to watch Hoover open the game with a stunning touchdown run on the first play. Ironically, the same miracle occured again, as the Pates ran back at Clovis kickoff for a touchdown for the second time in a row. The luck didn't last, however, as Hoover lost its 1981 Homecoming game to Clovis High, 39-27. During half-time, Stacey Power was crowned Hoover's Homecoming Queen for 1981, while Ashlynn Lujano received Senior attendant. Pate Junior attendant was Sarah Clines, and Laura Gilbert was proclaimed Sophomore attendant. Carrie Miller and Lisa Martin were both Queen finalists. A night of pageantry, bands, floats, and football was the icing on the cake for Homecoming 1981.

WINTER ILLUSIONS

The 1981-82 Patriot Winter Formal was an overwhelming success. Over 200 couples danced the night away to the sounds of Equinox. Kim Hatcher called this year's Formal, "A night I'll never forget." Robbie Rochholz said, "I had a great time." The Formal theme this year was "Winter Illusions," with stars and trees decorating the Pate Pavillion. For the first time in recent memory, the Winter Formal was moved up from January, to this year's date of December 12. Our 1982 Formal Queen, Lisa Martin, was crowned amid tears of joy. Senior attendant was Robin Holly; Junior attendant, Beth Cain; and Piet Ogata was sophomore attendant. Over 400 people spent a night in "Winter" Illusions.

The Hoover Yearbook Staff gets a little crazy when it comes time for the Final Deadline . . . So, take off you hoser, if you're not in the Yearbook Staff, you're nothing!

Look at us we're King Tuts! What, I can't hear you guys? Peace brother; I'm cool. Oh, I'm just getting so bored, hurry and take this dumb picture! Boy that Pepsi looks tasty. Well, I don't know about you people, but I'm going to smile for the camera. Who was that masked man? Woo Wee, that guy is soooooo cute! I'm just a sweet little girl, what am I doing in this crazy mixed up picture with all these weird people? Gee, I don't think I should have worn this shirt . . . Whatcha talkin' bout Willis? You guys sure look funny doing that! Ha Ha Ha Hee Hee Hee, you're such a comedian. Arr Arr Arr; I'm from the planet Ork. Meditation time, but I'll keep talking. Well, I won't, really get into it; Ah Um, Ah Um. Guess what???????????? Yep, 2 people just missed getting their picture taken, but of course they were late to class again, yes again!

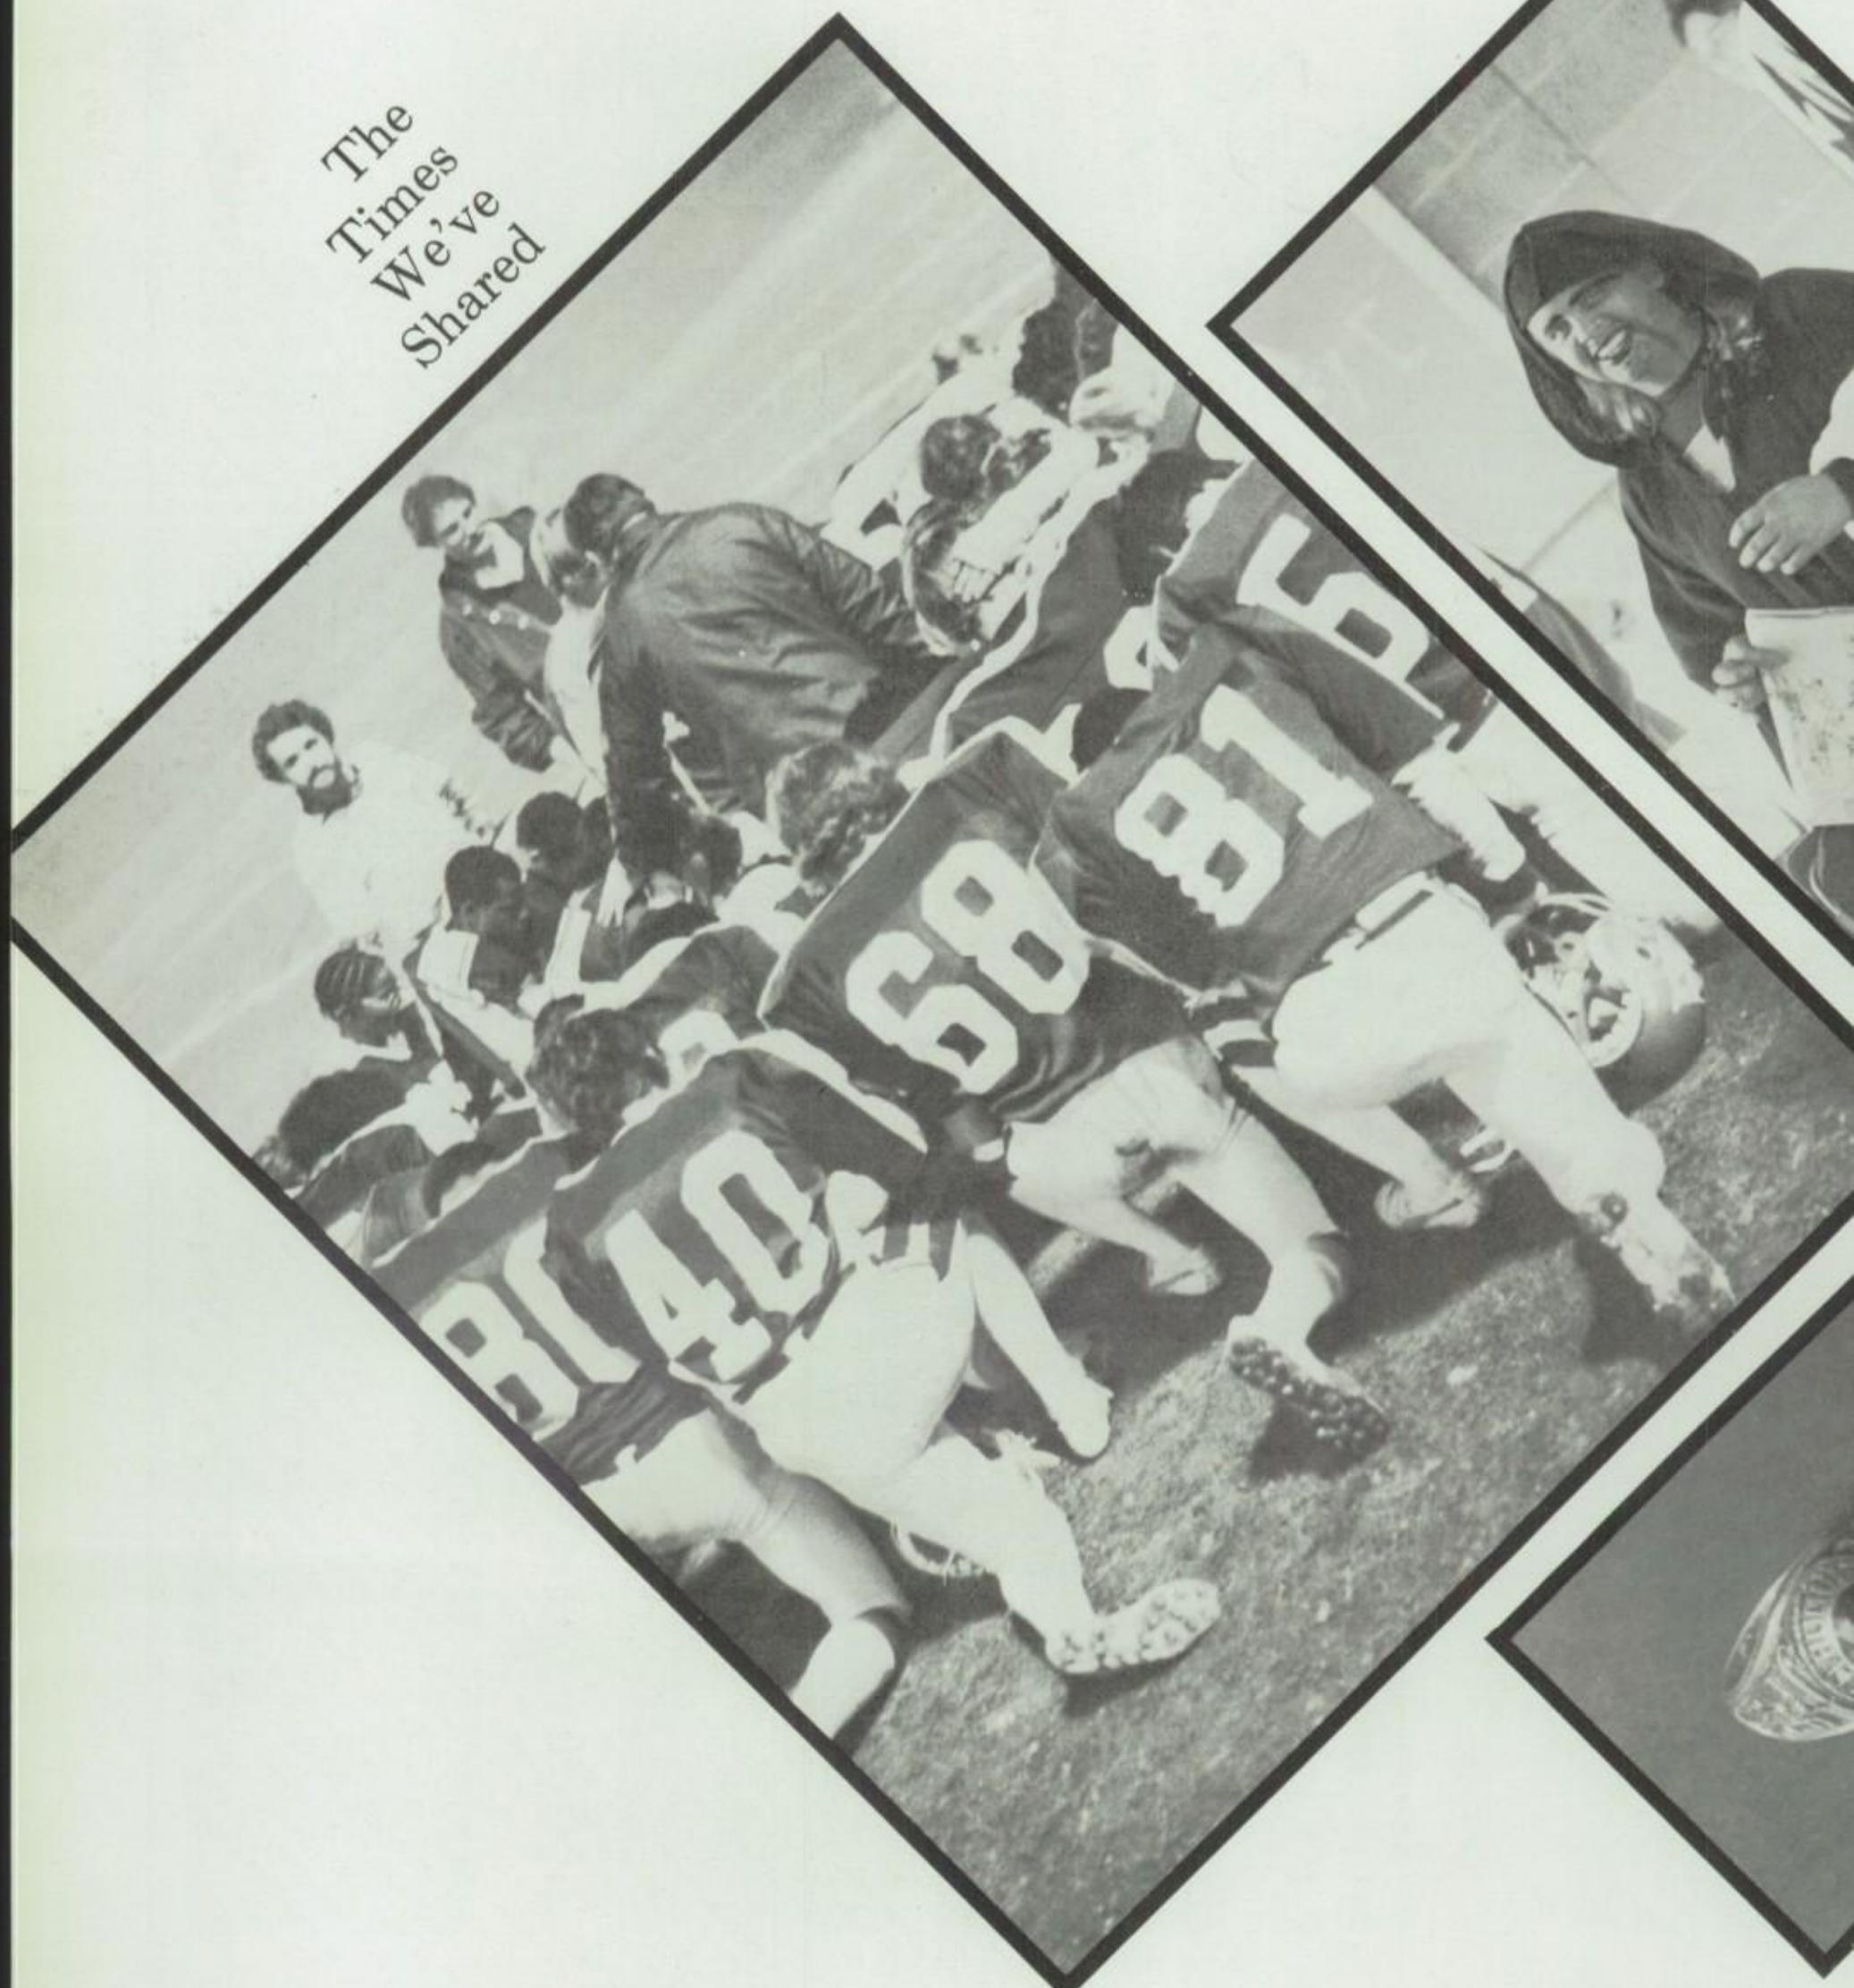
The Times We've Shared



Happy times, fun times, sad times. They were all with us during the year. As students came back to school in September, there was one very apparent thing missing—the infamous Hoover smoking section. By a law passed in California's Supreme Court, Hoover was forced to close down the smoking area, which was formerly located between the office and the cafeteria. The removal created praise, and anger, since the smokers resorted to the days of old, when they openly displayed their puffing skills in front of the school in full view of passersby.

A heroic effort by two Hoover students on December 18 was one of the year's highlights. Patriot Juniors Bill Murphy and Murray Wilson tackled an alleged robber on the Hoover campus. Reportedly the robber had tried to escape police by entering the campus. His attempt, however, was foiled by the boys' courageous efforts. The entire Hoover student body was awarded a special commendation by the Fresno Police Department for their quick reactions in helping police obtain the suspect. Another courageous effort during the year was on the part of Hoover teacher Hal Froese. As the fire alarm went off on a cold October morning, Froese spotted smoke emerging from a vent in a locked-up storage room of the business building. Froese bravely fought the flames and extinguished the fire, even before the Fresno Fire Department units had arrived. Hoover sports teams fared well during the year. Our valley Champion Water Poloists achieved the Valley title for the second consecutive year. In addition, Senior Tom Robinson was chosen as the North Yosemite League's Player of the Year, as well as being named to the All-Northern California First Team. Hoover's boys' and girl's Soccer teams both claimed N.Y.L. Championships for the third straight time. Patriot Cross Country team members Dean Walker, also for the third year in a row, won the Fresno City Cross Country Championship. A number of injuries and talk of forfeits couldn't keep the Pate Football team from posting a respectable 4-5 N.Y.L. record on the gridiron. In addition, the Hoover Lettergirls, Majorette Team, and Percussion Section all claimed California State Championship titles for the first time ever. In local sports action, the year marked Fresno's first ever California Bowl football game. Predictably, the Bulldog gridders failed to qualify for the formidable opponents—San Jose State and the University of Toledo. Fresno State's Bulldog Basketball team once again had a superb season, playing before constant sellouts in Grant's Tomb, and advancing to post-season action for the second consecutive year. 1981-82 featured the first annual Pig Bowl, also. This bacon bash matched the Fresno City Police Department and the Fresno County Sherriff's Department in a football game played at McLane Stadium on a cold and foggy afternoon in January. Hoover's activity groups gained national exposure this year by traveling to various U.S. cities, as well as cities in California. The Patriot Marching Band and Jazz Band raised nearly $150,000 to represent the State of California at the National Cherry Blossom Festival during April in Washington, D.C. The "Pride of The San Joaquin Valley" spent a fun-filled week of parades, field shows, concerts, and sightseeing in our nation's capital. Hoover's Madrigals raised enough funds to travel to the Hawaiian Islands, also in April. The Madrigals spent a week singing, swimming, surfing, and sightseeing in the state of Hawaii. Fashion highlights for the year included designer shoelaces, which featured such designs as hearts, rainbows, alligators, crayons, stars, unicorns, and Garfield. In shoes, topsiders and Vans ruled the field. During the winter, leg warmers could be seen on the legs of many a Hoover girl. Headbands were in during 82, as were knickers, which proves that the band follows trends too.

Good Times And Good Friends

Do the twist!

Patriots Today And Patriots Forever

Guess who signed my yearbook Right Here

Overall, 1982 was a preppy year in fashion, and one we won't forget. One of the most popular movies of the year was "Raiders Of The Lost Ark", a suspense drama starring Harrison Ford. Teen sensation Brooke Shields made it big at the box office in "Endless Love", while Dudley Moore made it big with "Arthur". Smash hits for the year also included "Reds", "Taps", "Private Lessons", and "Halloween II". There was "On Golden Pond", "Absence Of Malice", and "Only When I Laugh", to name just a few. From "Atlantic City" to "Escape From New York," it was a big movie year from coast to coast. It was a giant year for the music industry. Kim Carnes had a cornea transplant, and came out with "Bette Davis Eyes", a Number One smash. Lovers everywhere fell in love with "Endless Love", by Diana Ross & Lionel Richie, while Diana asked the musical question, "Why Do Fools Fall In Love". Olivia Newton-John had a physical, while Foreigner kept waiting for a girl like you. Rick James sang about that very kinky girl, but we all knew that she was Jessie's girl. The Commodores said, "Oh No", even though the Go-Go's lips were sealed. From Hall & Oates to Stevie Nicks to Pat Benatar to the Police, 1982 became a banner year in music. Overall, this past year was full of surprises. It was an extremely exciting, unforgetable year ...

Who would have ever thought the San Francisco 49ers would win Super Bowl XVI? Who ever thought Fresno State (Fresno who?) would have a Top 20 Basketball team? It was the year of the underdog, the year 1981-82. Those were some of the highlights during the 1981-82 school year. But, our friendships, whether old or new, were the year's real highlights. For without our friends, everything would have seemed small, and insignificant. As this year comes to an end, we remember the times we've shared. We remember the happy times, the fun times, and, of course, the sad times. We remember our good times, and our good friends. 1981-82 was full of special times we'll never forget. We can all stand proud and say that we're Patriots today and Patriots forever!

Making It Possible

Spending your weekends at school, trying to make deadlines and giving up your lunch hour, these are the things that a yearbook staff member does.

Yearbook takes dedication, hard work and a sense of humor. Along with the bad times there comes a lot of good times, new friends and fun.

Memories:

Janet Dunn(Co-Editor)Just being part of this crazy staff. Suzanne Neerman(Co-Editor) TPing Flashe's and getting caught, haunted darkrooms and fun! Cindy Sheldon(Classes Editor)Mr. Officer and weekends in a haunted darkroom. Kathy Gonsalves(Yrbk. Sales, Clubs Editor-)Coming in on weekends and all the crazy things that happened.

Lori Ricken(Sports Editor)Don't erase my #69! Haunted darkrooms!

Lori Jessick(Staff)The things I will remember the most were meeting new people, deadlines and policemen.

Peggy Kell(Staff)Meeting deadlines and watching people go crazy!

Michelle Kerby(Soph. Section)Getting cut down for being a Sophomore.

Michelle Linhoff(Staff)Always telling jokes with Monty, he goes crazy! Sitting on the counter.

Todd Lozano(Staff)The good times in the back of the room with BC,ML,MV. Destroyer. Wild and crazy group.

Marla Poulsen(Staff)Playing pattycakes with Rob and laughing at his dumb jokes.

Robbie Rochholz(Copy Editor)Telling jokes, yelling, darkroom, Me-N-Ed's, Saturdays. Brenda Thomas(Staff)Hot flasher's house: Cop cars are fun! But not in uniform!

Monty Vasquez(Staff)Wild and crazy, counter, laughing, teasing hair, fun, fun, fun!

The Balloons Are Gone

MEMORIES. Where would we be without them? We have matured and find ourselves no longer the children we once were. We realize the balloons are all gone and the scraped elbows and knees have healed. The images of our childhood have become an integral part of the mirage we call memories.

MEMORIES. Just as our childhood passed, so does high school. We all seem to say, "It seems like yesterday." Another year has come and gone. New friendships were made and old ones were strengthened. We experimented and tried new things and perhaps learned a lesson. Fun times, sad times, unique times all become lost times—unless they become memories.

MEMORIES. We combine the past and hopes of the future with the present. Tomorrow will soon become yesterday. Today the images are clear. Tomorrow they become memories.

MEMORIES. A yearbook is our symbol of the past. A History book, a reflection, a symbol, a Memoir. This year we dedicate the 1982 Memoir to our high school memories. Long may they live.

Hey Eddie,
It was nice getting to
you. You're a great photographer but I'm still mad about the awful picture. But I'll forgive give you. We're gonna miss you next year. We come visit you (me + Andy) at work
Take care and good luck
facing the big bad world.
Love Ya!

Ed-

Dear Eddie —

Well, only two more days left for you — can you believe it!!? I swear you & Scoz talk so much alike — I can't believe it!! Tell me Eddie "did you talk to Sherry"? I'll really miss not being able to talk to you in Journalism, but I know you'll call me (229-0427) this summer. you have to promise me that when you become famous for your pretty pictures in Journ. you will remember me!! Thanks for listening to all of my shit with Jerk, & I do know now that he really wasn't worth it, but we learn the hard way I guess!! I'm sorry about you & Monique — but she is just a Sophomore — & you know how immature they are so what can you expect?!? Well, when your bug is finally "bad" you will have to show me okay?! you are really a nice (& off the wall) friend to me & I hope we will always be good friends. Call me this summer — okay?!

Love Always,

Kim

P.S. Good luck in your future with whatever you do — & with your bug!!

P.S.S. It is "bad" isn't it?!

Dearest Edward,

Oh, Eddie, it's been fun! You've made my year what would I have done without you in the long lonely hallways of school!!? Are you excited to graduate? But I'll miss you Eddie! Next year, will you come back to visit me?

Love ya honey!

Love You,

Michelle

Had a good one Huh! The year was great; glad we meet and went to the mini truck + VW meetings. Sorry I didn't get to

Eddie-
The years already over, but it was a great
one. I'm really glad I meet you & hope to see
you over the summer.
love,
christine

P.S.
good luck
in the future.

-Eddie
you are really a nice person. We have gone to Hoover together since our sophmore year. We really haven't gotten to know eachother all that well and I'm sorry for that. You're the greatest. When I saw the picture of me & Steph together in the yearbok, I knew it was all your doing. In fact I remember you taking that picture. Take care & we will have a great graduation.

"82" Love
Ya

Dearest Eddie,
I am really happy that I met you.
I wish we could have gotten to know each other better.
You're a really sweet person. Please never change.
Luv ya always
